REPUBLICANS ARE EQUIPPED FOR CAMPAIGN

Party Textbook an Able Presentation of the Issues This Fall.

THERE'S NO DODGING ON TRUST QUESTION

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—The Republican textbook for the campaign of 1902 has been issued by the Republican congressional committee. The book makes liberal quotations from the speeches of both McKinley and Roosevelt and also contains extracts from their messages to congress in support of Republican doctrines. The book reviews the record of the Republican party from its beginning to the present time.

Under the heading, "Protection and Prosperity," 81 pages are devoted to advocacy of protection. Concerning iron and steel and the prosperity of workingmen the pamphlet says:

The importations of iron and steel manufactures have materially increased during the three years, and the exportations of iron and steel materially decreased. The cause of this change in the condition of the foreign commerce in iron and steel is discussed in the report of the Iron and Steel association, as follows:

Prosperity Reduces Exports.

In 1890 and immediately preceding years the iron and steel industries of Europe were exceptionally prosperous; there was an active demand and prices were high. In the years just prior to 1896 the prices of iron and steel in the United States were lower than they had ever been. Under these conditions we naturally found opportunities to dispose of our surplus iron and steel products in neutral markets and even in the home markets of our European countries. But these conditions have materially changed; the European demand and European prices have declined and the home demand upon our own iron and steel works has greatly increased, while our prices have advanced; hence sharper competition in neutral and all foreign markets and increased foreign competition in our own markets.

The figures of increased imports and decreased exports of iron and steel should not be hastily dismissed by our iron and steel manufacturers. We hope that they will lead them instead to dismiss the thought that the world's markets for iron and steel are to be easily captured and held. The activity in our export trade in iron and steel in the last few years was exceptional and abnormal. Not only is Europe adopting our improved methods of manufacture, but it will always have cheap labor, and by these agencies it can hold its own markets and actively and aggressively contend for the possession of neutral markets. For our iron and steel industries as well as for all other domestic manufacturing industries, our home market must always be our best market.

Labor Shares in Prosperity.

The prosperity of the people which has accompanied this activity of production, manufacturing, and exportation has been equally marked in every branch of industry. Wages have advanced, the number of persons employed has greatly increased, the products of the farm have doubled in value, and the earnings and savings of the people have largely increased. The deposits in the savings banks of the country. Official records show great prosperity among those engaged in each and all of the great industries of the country, the farmer, the manufacturer, and his millions of

T. R. HOSTETTER DIES SUDDENLY OF PNEUMONIA

Less Than Twelve Hours After the Attack He Breathes His Last.

HIS BODY TO REACH PITTSBURGH TODAY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Aug. 3.—Theodore R. Hostetter, member of the famous Pittsburgh family of that name, yachtsman and sportsman, died from pneumonia today after an illness of less than 12 hours.

Although he had been feeling out of sorts for several days, there were no signs of the disease, and when he left the Waldorf-Astoria Saturday afternoon to go to a private sanitarium it was more to rest than anything else. Not many hours afterward it was known that one of his lungs was affected, and despite every attention he died at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Hostetter, who left their summer home at Narragansett Pier earlier in the morning, had no idea that her husband was in any danger, and it was not until she arrived at the Waldorf-Astoria that she knew of her bereavement.

Theodore Rickey Hostetter was 32 years old and was born at the homestead in Allegheny. His father was David Hostetter and his grandfather was Dr. Jacob Hostetter, discoverer of the remedy from which the family made many millions of dollars. He was a brother of D. Herbert Hostetter, the present head of the Hostetter family.

Theodore R. Hostetter was educated at Heidelberg university and traveled extensively all over the world. He was married May 10, 1891, to Miss Allene Tew, who, with their son, Theodore Rickey, Jr., and daughter Greta survive him. Although their home was in Pittsburgh, Mr. Hostetter was an enthusiastic yachtsman, being a member of the New York and Larchmont Yacht clubs. He owned many boats. The Duquesne was built by him, and lying in the East river now is his latest craft, the Seneca, on which he ended a cruise last Wednesday.

In addition, Mr. Hostetter was a member of the Lambs of this city, the Duquesne and Pittsburgh clubs of Pittsburgh, the Staten Island Polo club, the Allegheny Country club and several hunting and fishing clubs in the south and north.

After installing his family in their Narragansett Pier home early in the summer Mr. Hostetter made a short cruise on the Seneca and came to this city from Larchmont last Wednesday. On Thursday he attended a polo game at the Staten Island club. He remained in his room Friday on advice of his physician and, feeling no better Saturday, went to the sanitarium, after a drive through the park. He had engaged another carriage for a drive at about the hour he died.

Mr. Hostetter's body will be taken to Pittsburgh tomorrow and the funeral will be on Wednesday. Funeral services will be held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Herbert Dupuy, No. 9 Western avenue, Allegheny, Tuesday at 2 o'clock p. m.

TOO POOR TO GO TO HER DEAD SON

Oliver Moran, dead in Baltimore, was the only support of an invalid mother and four small sisters, and it is probable that his body will have to lay in the Potter's field in that city because his mother has not the money necessary for its transportation and burial here.

Mrs. Moran called at Central station yesterday and said that it was probably her son who died at Baltimore, as reported, for he had started for that city. She is not sure that it is her son, nor has she any way of finding out. She told Superintendent McAleese that her husband died two years ago and since that time she and the four little girls have been entirely dependent on the wages of Oliver and she cannot go to Baltimore to identify him.

ICE TRUST WEAKENS.

Unable to Endure Opposition in Eastern Cities—The Baltimore Stock Now Held for Sale.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—The opposition encountered by the American ice trust has compelled it to abandon business in several cities where formerly it had control. William McIntyre of Maryland, the authorized agent for the American ice trust, has been in Atlantic City two weeks, and tonight he received a hurry call to Baltimore for a conference with the Baltimore directors of the trust. Before he left he admitted that he had been authorized to sell the Baltimore stock of the American Ice Company. Mr. McIntyre said:

"The only way for an ice company to make any headway is by having a monopoly. In Baltimore the opposition is very strong, while the same thing may be said for Philadelphia and New York. If the stock can be sold at face value, we will be more than willing to dispose of it."

BLOODY FIGHT RESULTED FROM ITALIANS' FUN

One Man Was Fatally Cut, Another Slightly, and Two Shot.

FOUR OF THE SIX MEN HAVE BEEN CAPTURED

A bloody cutting and shooting affray occurred in Tunnel street last evening between six Italians, which resulted in the injury of four, one fatally and three slightly. Two of the Italians are under arrest at the Central police station and two at the Homeopathic hospital. The fight was the outcome of a frolic. The six Italians were sparring with each other, but lost their tempers, and, drawing knives and a revolver, started to shoot and slash one another in the street before 300 of their countrymen. The witnesses became terrified and ran screaming out Tunnel street to Webster avenue. Three of the men were arrested by Officer John Dean and the fourth by Detective Bernard McStay. Two of the participants escaped.

The Injured.

SANTO TERRONALLO, 29 years old, of No. 609 Webster avenue. Stabbed over the kidneys and was removed to the Homeopathic hospital. Will die.

GIOVANNI TERRONALLO, 36 years old, of No. 609 Webster avenue, shot in left breast. Condition not serious.

Started in Fun.

The men had been drinking during the afternoon at a boarding house at No. 603 Webster avenue. Shortly after 6 o'clock they started from the house to go to a friend's place in Tunnel street. They were walking quietly out the street and as they came to No. 18 Tunnel street they started to spar with each other. Masco and Giovanni Terronallo were striking at each other and Masco lost his temper. He drew a revolver and shot his adversary in the left breast. This seemed to excite the other Italians, and without any apparent cause the other three drew knives and started to stab and cut one another. Masco shot three times at the five men. After the shots two of the Italians, who are known to the police, ran away.

The four under arrest clinched. Three of them had knives and Masco used his revolver like a blackjack. They fell and rolled over and over in the street. No one is able to tell who wounded the other. Masco was cut in the shoulder. Santo Terronallo was seriously wounded over the right kidney and he will die.

Two Were Shot.

His brother was shot in the left breast. Vincenzo Gazzo was shot in the left jaw, the ball striking him a glancing blow and coming out two inches from where it entered.

Police Officer John Dean heard the excitement and hurried to Tunnel street. The sight of the officer caused the men to separate and try to escape. The officer went for Masco and was taking his revolver from him as the other three ran out Tunnel street.

The Terronallo brothers became weak from the loss of blood and were compelled to give themselves up.

Gazzo was escaping out Tunnel street when he rushed into the arms of Detective Bernard McStay.

The men were placed in No. 1 patrol wagon and taken to the Homeopathic hospital. It was determined that Masco and Gazzo were not wounded seriously and they were taken to the Central police station. The Italians said last night they were only "funning with each other" and lost their tempers.

First Arrivals at Camp White.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—The first company arrived here today for the annual encampment of the National Guard, which will be formally opened Tuesday morning. The first to arrive was the Rowlesburg company. The camp is called "Camp White," in honor of the governor.

ICEMEN WILL SUE IN BEHALF OF FEIGHTLEY

Action Against Supt. McAleese and Detective Swinehart.

DAMAGES TO BE ASKED NOT YET DETERMINED

The Pittsburgh and Allegheny Icemen's Benevolent association decided at a meeting yesterday to bring suit for damages against Superintendent of Police John McAleese and Detective Alfred H. Swinehart, over the alleged wrongful detention of Bert Feightley, one of their members, in connection with the murder of Achsah King on July 23. Frank Poulson, president and business agent of the association, announced after the meeting:

"We have 624 members and over $11,000 in treasury. We will spend all of this, and more if need be, to get justice for the outrage against our brother. We have decided, on the advice of attorneys, not to bring action against the city, and now propose to enter a suit for damages against McAleese and Swinehart.

"McAleese owns some property in Lawrence county, and has some other property, and we think we can collect the amount of a substantial judgment that should be obtained for our brother.

"The amount of damages to be asked we will determine in a conference with our attorney tomorrow. We expect to enter our case before the close of the prothonotary's office tomorrow, but it may be later."

The case will be entered in common pleas court No. 3, presided over by Judge S. A. McClung. James Francis Burke has been the attorney for the ice men, but the case has been put in the hands of Attorney Thomas L. Kerin.

The meeting of the ice men was held yesterday afternoon in Moorhead hall, and was largely attended.

DETECTIVE ROACH ON TRAIL OF ALLEN

Ashcah King Murder Suspect Again Visits Steubenville and Is Being Followed to Chicago.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 3.—The detective force of Pittsburgh is still working on the theory that Joe Allen of this city murdered the King woman in Pittsburgh.

Detective John Roach was here from Pittsburgh today and it was learned that he had been kept posted and found that Allen got off the towboat he boarded here and was seen here again. The fact of his presence was given away again by his wife, who is a nemesis on his trail.

It is said that Allen left here to enlist under an assumed name at the United States army recruiting agency at Chicago and Roach left for there today to try to apprehend him.

The Police officials of Pittsburgh last night refused positively to discuss the matter of Detective Roach's alleged search for Joe Allen.

FOUR TRAINMEN KILLED.

Two Milk Trains Come Together on Ontario & Western Head-On at Hortons, N. Y.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 3.—A head-on collision between milk trains on the Ontario & Western railroad at Hortons, Delaware county, today, resulted in the death of four persons, the wrecking of two engines and the ditching of several cars. The dead:

ANDY O'NEAL of Norwich, engineer of the southbound train.

ROBERT REESE, fireman of the same train.

MICHAEL TULLY, trainman of the same train.

FRANK E. MONROE, trainman of the same train.

Benjamin St. John, engineer of the other train, jumped from the cab, escaping serious injury.

CROWD WATCHED THE COLLAPSE OF OLD BUILDING

Structure Was Undermined for Foundation of Its Successor.

UNLUCKY LEASE OF P. S. HUCKENSTEIN

With a muffled crash and a roaring sound before the eyes of 3,000 people, the three-story brick building occupied by P. S. Huckenstein as a saloon and restaurant at No. 116 Sixth street, collapsed at 5:46 o'clock yesterday evening. A great, dense cloud of dust, arose over a hundred feet in the air and spread itself over the block. The dust filled the atmosphere for ten minutes, and then the safety department ropes which had kept the crowd out of the danger limits were pulled down and traffic along Sixth street was resumed.

No one was injured. There had been warning fully two hours before the final crash in the parting of the south wall from the adjoining building. The last of the people connected with the saloon and restaurant had passed out of the building at Saturday midnight, leaving as the only occupants a colony of four cats. One of these by some miracle found its way out along the inner wall to the street when the structure went down and another came out at the rear.

Phipps Does Not Lose.

The wrecked building was owned by Henry Phipps, Jr., having been purchased in April from Anton Lutz for $4,000. Its destruction was to have been started in a few weeks to make room for the new Bessemer building.

The north wall of the structure had been weakened by the excavation for the big new Phipps building at the corner of Duquesne way and Sixth street. Under the foundation wall of the wrecked building there was only a light embankment of earth, extending out about 10 feet to the deepest basement work of the new Phipps structure.

Had the building dropped before 4 o'clock on Saturday it might have cost Mr. Phipps $15,000 or more. As it is Mr. Phipps' real estate and building representative, H. B. Naylor, says it will not cost him a cent. At 4 o'clock on Saturday Mr. Huckenstein had transferred, through Mr. Naylor, his lease, which had a life of three years after next April, for $5,000. Mr. Huckenstein holds the check in this amount and has not yet had an opportunity to deposit it in bank.

Proprietor Suffers.

His stock and fixtures will be a dead loss, which Mr. Huckenstein estimates at nearly $4,000. On this stock and fixtures Mr. Huckenstein held fire insurance in the sum of $1,500, of which $1,000 was in the North British and Merchants Insurance Company of London. This policy was recently renewed, and after the collapse of the building it was picked out of the ruins hardly soiled, but supposedly worthless.

"Yes," said Mr. Huckenstein, "my lease was transferred for Henry Phipps on Saturday, and it cost him $5,000. I am sorry that it was. I think I could get $20,000 for the lease tomorrow if it was still mine. It was also practically arranged that my license was to be purchased by F. C. Smith, the proprietor of the Victoria hotel.

"It was arranged that I should remain a tenant in the building till next Friday. I believe that under these circumstances Mr. Phipps or his agents are responsible for my loss, but I am not certain, and would rather not talk about that till I have consulted my attorney."

Victoria to Get License.

Mr. Smith, the new proprietor of the Victoria, declared that he had not yet taken the license of Huckenstein, admitting, however, that negotiations were on, but could not be closed till Huckenstein was through using the license and the transfer had been arranged with the license court.

H. B. Naylor, who is superintending the construction of the new Bessemer building, which will be of 11 stories, said after the building was down that he was heartily glad of it; that it would simply save some of the work of tearing it down.

Mr. Naylor asserted that Mr. Phipps is not liable at all to the tenant; that he was remaining in the building at his own risk, having surrendered his lease the day before. "Mr. Huckenstein has the check for $5,000 and we have the lease and that ends it," said Mr. Naylor.

NON-UNIONISTS DRAGGED FROM STREET CARS

Strikers Forced Camden Railway Company to Abandon Schedule.

RIOTING OCCURS IN THREE STATES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Ironton, O., Aug. 3.—The strike of the employes of the Camden Interstate Electric railway practically tied up the lines from Guyandotte, W. Va., to Hanging Rock, O., and intermediate points today. In seven hours all the non-union men were driven from the cars in this city by violence. Crowds gathered at street intersections hurling fruit, eggs and other missiles at motormen and conductors.

At noon James Sanders, a union man, who refused to quit, was taken from his car and dragged toward the Ohio river. On promising not to resume his car, he was escorted home in a roundabout way to escape the crowds. The conductor on the same car and several linemen were taken home in cabs to escape the mobs. Cars were held up all over the city until noon, when traffic was suspended.

Non-union men were also afraid to run through the crowds at Catlettsburg and Ashland, Ky., and other points on the Kentucky and West Virginia side of the Ohio river.

The Ironton strikers ran cabs and secured more passengers than the street cars, women who chose that mode of conveyance in preference to street cars being cheered by the crowds.

The concert at Beechwood park, the railway company's pleasure resort, was abandoned, the Ironton orchestra declining to play after the strike was declared. The crowds of union sympathizers had full sway without molestation from the authorities, not a policeman appearing at any of the points of disturbance.

The local militia will leave for camp at Newark tomorrow and the preservation of order will devolve upon the officials in case of more serious outbreaks, almost certain to occur if the cars shall be operated.

Seth Vinson of Huntington, W. Va., general attorney of the Camden company, arrived here this afternoon and held an informal conference with the strike leaders. He said the company was willing to recognize the union, but there were no assurances tonight of speedy settlement.

In Huntington and Central City, W. Va., hundreds of friends of the strikers lined the tracks and various missiles were hurled at passengers and motormen. In one instance a woman passenger was pulled through the window of a car. She fainted and had to be removed in an ambulance to a hotel. Superintendent Gathright appealed to the sheriff for protection, but he said the city authorities should make an effort to preserve order before he could take a hand. Later Gov. White was appealed to, but no action has yet been taken by state authorities.

DESPERATE BATTLE IS STILL RAGING

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.—"Battle still being fought desperately."

These were the words contained in a dispatch received at the Colombian legation tonight from Gen. Salazar, governor of the department of Panama, and were in answer to a message asking for information regarding the contest which has been in progress since Tuesday at Agua Dulce, when the Colombian revolutionists began to attack that place.

Officials here are anxiously awaiting additional news of this battle. The understanding here is that the government's force of about 7,000 men is engaged with a large portion of the revolutionists, who have in the department of Panama about 4,000 men in all.

Agua Dulce, though only 75 miles from Panama, is in an inaccessible part of the country for ready communication.

HOT VOLLEYS FROM AMBUSH AWAKE GUARD

Sentry at Shenandoah Knocked Down by Stone Thrown from Bushes.

EIGHTH REGIMENT CALLED TO ARMS

Three Attacks on Lone Troopers During Night and One Arrest Made.

BALL CARTRIDGES HAVE BEEN ISSUED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Shenandoah, Pa., Aug. 3.—The entire Eighth regiment was called to arms during last night as a result of three attacks made by men in ambush, who threw stones at the troops now in camp on the plateau outside the town.

Tonight a double guard supplied with ball cartridges surrounds the camp, and the sentries have been instructed by Gen. Gobin that if last night's stone throwing is repeated they must shoot to kill and investigate afterward.

One of last night's attacking party, William Stoponitz, a Lithuanian, is under arrest and confined in the guard tent. It is not known how many were in the crowd, but the officers believe there were more than a dozen.

The first attack, according to Col. Theodore F. Hoffman, was made at 10:45 p. m. Private Payne of Company I, on sentry duty, saw a number of men on the Mahaney City road, which separates the camp of the Eighth regiment from the Twelfth.

Sentry is Knocked Down.

He commanded the men to halt and called the corporal of the guard, but before the latter could respond a shower of stones and rocks were thrown at the sentry. One rock struck him on the chest, knocking him down and causing his gun to fall from his hands. He immediately jumped up and fired several shots in the air. As he did so the men ran down the road, and were pursued by several strangers. The outpost, which had been stationed some distance from the camp, heard the shot and one of the pickets captured Stoponitz. The others escaped.

The shooting aroused the whole camp and the Eighth regiment was put under arms and Companies B, E and K were immediately thrown out in skirmish lines. They beat the underbrush and laurel, but they could find no one. The regiment was then called to quarters. Fifteen minutes later another shower of stones was thrown at the stable guard, located south of the Eighth regiment. The guard turned out and three men were seen running away.

Regiment Called to Arms.

Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning the Third and last attack was made, and it was of such a nature that the bugler, under orders from Col. Hoffman, sounded the whole regiment to arms. This time the stable guard was again the object of the mysterious attack. Stones in volleys were thrown at the guard and at the sentries nearby. On account of the laurel, underbrush and the darkness the soldiers could not see the offenders. The sentries fired about a dozen shots into the bushes, but no one was hit.

The noise of the firing and the bugle call to arms stirred up the Twelfth regiment and the governor's troop of cavalry, which is located close to the Eighth regiment. Col. Clement of the Twelfth sent out detachments to investigate the trouble, as did also Capt. Ott, in command of the cavalry. The Eighth regiment, Col. Hoffman said, was under arms and ready for action in three minutes. Another thorough investigation was made without result and then the command, after standing in formation for 30 minutes, was called to quarters and not again disturbed.

Gobin Orders Ball Cartridges.

Col. Hoffman made a full report to Brig. Gen. Gobin, who came to camp during the forenoon to make an investigation. The prisoner said there were only four men in the party. He gave the name of one of them as Michael Lavotiz and said he did not know who the others were. He made several contradictory statements. Gen. Gobin says he will turn Stoponitz over to the civil authorities tomorrow.

"I have ordered several rounds of ball cartridges to be issued to each sentry," said Gen. Gobin, "and that the officers of the guard be instructed to have them used. The guards at the camp will also be increased."

Col. Hoffman said he did not know whether the stone throwing was done to annoy the troops or to see what the regiment would or could do.

"Last night's occurrence demonstrated that we can be ready for any emergency in three minutes," he said, "and hereafter we will stand no nonsense and will give a bullet for each stone."

Want's Grant's Record Backward.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—Capt. John C. Byrch, who recently returned to his home in this state from the Philippines, has sent his resignation to the secretary of war. Capt. Byron intends engaging in business with his father, who is in the tannery business at Williamsport and Mercersburg, Pa.

Obican Slain by His Son.

MARTHUR, O., Aug. 3.—David Morris, Sr., a farmer aged 48, was killed by his son, David Morris, Jr., aged 22, last night near Prattsville. The son demanded the use of a horse. When the father refused the son struck him with a club. Young Morris is held without bail.

CHURCH RULERS FIND NO FAULT WITH AMERICA

All Agree That Interests of Catholics in Dependencies Are Respected.

BISHOP BLENCK'S REPORT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—Archbishop Ireland, preaching this morning in the cathedral, said:

"The Apostle Paul gives this counsel, 'Not to be more wise than it behoveth to be wise, but to be wise unto sobriety, and according as God hath divided to every one the measure of faith.' In the mind of the Apostle, things most excellent, if made use of in undue measure and without proper regard to circumstances of time and place, change into things perilous and hurtful. And this is undoubtedly what is happening in the case of the fiery zeal in defense of Catholic interests, which seems to be coveting an explosion at the present time among certain classes of American Catholics. The interests of the church, it is said, are made to suffer at the hands of the government in its newly acquired dependencies, and the call to arms is sounded from the rostrums of Catholic societies, and through the columns of Catholic papers, to the perturbation of the whole Catholic body, and, indeed, of the whole country. The moment has come to say to Catholics: 'Be wise, be zealous, unto sobriety, and according as God hath divided to every one the measure of faith.' And such is the counsel I take the liberty to give to my hearers.

Archbishop Ireland.

Sovereign Pontiff Is Heard.

Who are they, who complain and protest and call upon Catholics to be up and doing? Are they those who might claim to represent the church in its general, or even local interests? Has the sovereign pontiff spoken? Certainly he has not complained; rather has he been heard from in very different tones. Have the ecclesiastical authorities in the dependencies invoked our aid? In no instance have they so acted; where they have been heard from—as in the case of Porto Rico and of Cuba—it was to tell us in plainest words that they had no grievance, although from irresponsible sources it had been, on several previous occasions, dinned into our ears that the church was robbed and persecuted in both these islands.

Bishop Blenck of Porto Rico openly rejoices that the American flag, rather than the Spanish, guards his diocese, and the hierarchy in Cuba are thanking God that church interests there were settled by the government of Washington before a Cuban parliament was allowed to sit in Havana. The Archbishops of the states met together once a year in Washington—each one representing the whole hierarchy.

Have Sounded No Alarm.

It can not be said that they are heedless of the welfare of the church; and yet they have sounded no alarm. Whatever complaints have been heard, come from individual Catholics—from societies of Catholics; in neither case is there warrant to represent others than the men themselves, or the societies themselves who do speak. Societies of Catholics are organized for purposes of their own, usually with the intent to secure special aid or comfort to such as are members thereof. Restricted to those purposes, they are within their sphere and are entitled to respect. To venture beyond those purposes, and assume general direction of the church is quite another thing. It must be remembered that there are hundreds of thousands of good and influential Catholic laymen, members of no mutual-benevolent society, who have commissioned no society to speak for them. It must be remembered also that soldiers of the church, as soldiers of an army of whatsoever kind, whether single or whether in companies or regiments, must await the action of the commanders, before they undertake to act for the whole organization. "Be wise according as God hath divided to every one the measure of faith."

Religious Harmony Desired.

Nothing is to be more dreaded in America than hatred and warring among citizens in the name of religion, and it behooves all classes of the population to do their utmost to nurture and maintain peace and harmony; it behooves Catholics, even more than others, to be models of prudence and good will in this regard. The simplest approach among them to form a political party on the basis of religious interests would be fatal to those interests and fatal to public peace. It is quite easy for a few to kindle a fire, which will threaten ravages to a whole community, and which a whole community will find it an arduous task to extinguish.

Nor is public agitation necessary in America to redress grievances, if grievances do exist, whether such grievances have origin, as is the more often the case, from mere inadvertence, or as it more rarely happens, from malice aforethought on the part of individual officials of the government. I say it advisedly and I am prepared to stand by what I here say, there is always redress from grievances, so far as circumstances may allow, if it is sought through quiet and reasonable methods from the high representatives of the government. Let justice be done to America; in no other country is there a government of fair-minded, so impartial, so willing to treat all classes of citizens with absolute justice as that with which we are blessed in America.

In Hands of the Pope.

As to matters in the Philippine islands, we cannot discuss them. They are the subject of negotiations between the government of America and the sovereign pontiff.

The logic of the situation in the presence of strange complications for church and state arising from a change of sovereignty in the Philippine islands pointed to a mutual confidence between the head of the church and the statesmen of the proper and dignified way to a final and peaceful solution. Leo XIII. saw this; Theodore Roosevelt saw this. Leo took the initiative, proposed the conference and asked the government to choose frankly and thoroughly its views. The president and his advisers accepted the proposition. What more could have been done by the administration to prove its good will and sense of justice? If the administration had refused to send a representative to Rome, verily what clamorings there would have been. And now, when it has sent a representative to Rome and agrees to the further proposal of the vatican to transfer negotiations to Manila, clamorings are still raised.

Well, some people are born to clamor; and privilege to clamor must be allowed to them. Be it so; but we shall insist that they clamor in their own name and not in the name of the church in America. And for our own part we shall hold ourselves in peace, leaving church interests in the Philippines to one who understands them as well at least as we do, and will be as wise in disposing of them as we could well hope to be—Leo XIII.

wage-earners, and those engaged in the mines and forests.

Twenty pages are devoted to the trusts, and in opening the discussion the book thus describes the attitude of the two parties:

"The attitude of the two great parties on the trust question is clearly defined. That of the Democratic party looks to constant agitation, with no restrictive legislation; that of the Republican party to such restriction as will prevent arbitrary advance in prices or reduction in wages through exclusive control, but not the destruction by legislation or injury by fictitious agitation of legitimate enterprise through great manufacturing systems by which production is cheaped, prices of manufacture reduced and permanency of employment assured."

Party Record on Trusts.

Following this is the record of the Republican party on the trust question, mention of the Sherman anti-trust law, McKinley's recommendation, proposed legislation by the Republicans and a quotation from President Roosevelt's message to the Fifty-seventh congress, which is described as "conservative but fearless." The assertion is made that the share of the trusts in business is comparatively small. The book says:

"The trusts have not occupied as great a place in the manufacturing industries as they have in public discussion." Further along it is asserted, "The Republican administration of President McKinley and President Roosevelt have made a good record in their efforts to execute the anti-trust law. There has been no shirking of duty because of the power of the financial influence behind the trusts. There has been no hesitation for fear the law would not prove effective. These two Republican presidents have recognized no man or corporation as above the law."

The assertion also is made that "Free trade England is the home of trusts."

The Philippine Policy.

Ninety-five pages of the publication are devoted to the Philippines and the Republican insular policy, which includes the early stages of the acquisition, the conduct of the army, declarations from prominent people that the Filipinos are not ready for independence, a large portion of Admiral Dewey's testimony before the senate Philippine committee, in which he gave his opinion of Aguinaldo. President Roosevelt's memorial address, as far as it refers to the conduct of soldiers in the Philippines, is quoted entire. There is also some discussion of trade with the insular possessions.

More than 20 pages are given to the discussion of the gold standard and an outline of the Republican party on financial questions. A chapter is given to diplomacy in the orient, and a declaration is made that "McKinley's policy saved China from dismemberment."

The declaration of the late Amos J. Cummings, "When I refuse to vote to protect the lives of American soldiers I hope I shall be paralyzed," heads a chapter, which declares that "the Democrats oppose army appropriations."

Reference is made to the repeal of the war taxes. Credit is given the Republican party for the isthmian canal.

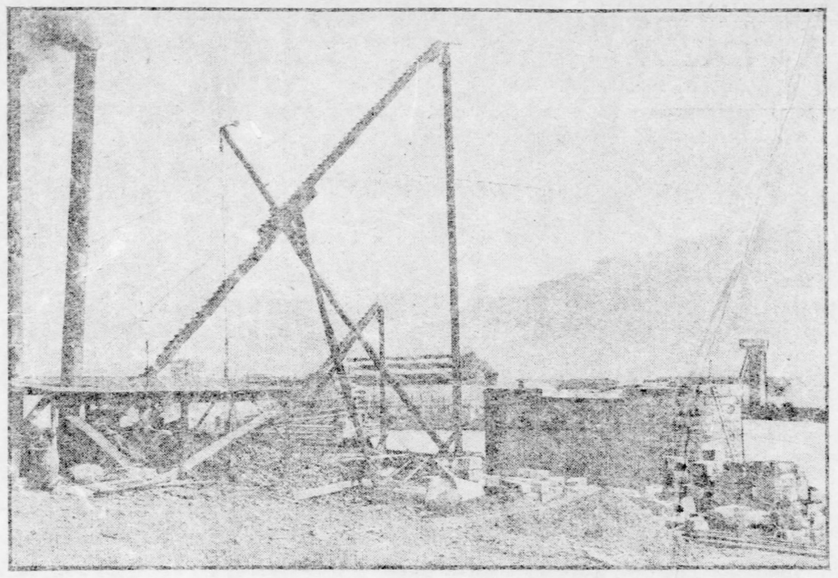
Considerable space is given to Cuba, and it is asserted "that the ground work of a republican form of government was laid by the United States under a Republican policy."

McKinley's Last Speech.

Liberal quotations are made from President McKinley's last speech at Buffalo. Reference is made to Republican efforts to revive the American merchant marine. The Fifty-seventh congress is referred to as "a distinctively business congress," and the principal acts of that congress are mentioned, especial reference being made to the new policy in aid of reclaiming the arid lands of the west. The Republican party is claimed to be the friend of the old soldiers, and the pension laws it has enacted are enumerated. The claim is made that rural free delivery is due to Republican legislation and administration.

In the closing pages of the book is a chapter entitled "Democratic Harmony." Reference is made to the Tilden club dinner, there being a quotation from ex-president Cleveland's speech, and the comments of William J. Bryan and Henry Watterson upon it, and the efforts toward Democratic harmony.

NIGHT AND DAY WORK IS RUSHED ON THE GREAT FOUNDATIONS FOR THE BIG WABASH BRIDGE



Derricks Used on the Monongahela Wharf in Building the Wabash Bridge.

Night and day the work of preparation preliminary to erecting across the Monongahela river, from Ferry street to the face of Mt. Washington, the big Wabash bridge is being rushed forward. The engineers of the road believe that the monster piers will be ready for the steel superstructure by the middle of September. After that the progress will be more visible. Up to the present time the work has been so largely underground that it has been hard to realize the growth in its completion.

Now, however, the large piers on each side of the river are well on to completion. There is lacking only a portion of the upper part of the pier on the south bank, while that on the north bank has attained half its height.

It is in the anchor piers now that the greatest work is being done. The anchor pier on the north bank is located in the center of the block between Ferry street and Redoubt alley and Water street and First avenue. The excavations in the big caisson in this pier were completed this week, bed-rock having been reached for a solid foundation, and the work of filling in with concrete will be started at once.

It is noteworthy with what care and regard to permanency and safety these great piers are being built. Each of the four in the bridge will have rests on bed-rock. Every bit of stone and cement and all the work of preparing the concrete is inspected with the utmost care. With perfect material, skillfully mixed and placed, concrete becomes as solid as the natural rock. The anchor piers will be solid monoliths of concrete.

The channel piers, which stand at the edge of the river on each side, are monsters in height. They will tower 70 feet in the air, or in other words, the height of a six-story building. The base is about 30 feet across, with a depth of about 10 feet, and the piers sink 80 feet under the surface to bed-rock.

Part of the steel that will be used in the anchor pier on the north side of the river has already been delivered. The rest of the steel is now being made at the mills of the American Bridge Company. Every effort is being put forth to have this material ready in time, as it is realized that with the freight troubles again threatening Pittsburgh, the arrival of Wabash trains cannot be made possible too early.

HUNG HIMSELF TO THE BARS OF HIS PRISON CELL

George Blake Committed Suicide In No. 6 Police Station.

TOLD OTHER PRISONERS

Before He Strung Himself Up He Loudly Announced His Intention, but They Paid No Attention to Him—Arrested On Wife's Charge.

George Blake hanged himself last night to the door of the cell in which he was confined in the East End police station. Had his fellow prisoners paid any attention to his threat to commit suicide and told the policeman on duty, his life might have been preserved, but, supposing he was drunk, they disregarded his loudly shouted intention. The body was still warm when cut down by the police, but despite a half hour's efforts by a physician to revive him, life was pronounced extinct and the body was removed to the morgue. Blake was a glassworker and lived with his family at No. 5910 Center avenue.

He was arrested early in the afternoon on complaint of his wife, who told Policeman James Connors that her husband was disorderly and drunk and that he had smashed the furniture and abused her. Connors took Blake into custody and he was taken to the police station. There he was assigned to a cell.

Although under the influence of liquor, Blake behaved with perfect quietness. Several times during the afternoon and evening he asked for a drink of water and always got it. He was polite, too, and apologetically explained that he hated to trouble the sergeant, but that the weather was "awfully" hot and he was thirsty.

At 10:30 p. m. Blake rapped again on the bars of his cell with his tin cup and asked Acting Sergt. Joseph Pearson for a drink of water. Pearson took him back the cup and after drinking Blake lay down on the wooden bench in the cell and apparently composed himself to go to sleep, while the sergeant was looking on.

Shortly after Pearson left, Blake shouted to a prisoner in an adjoining cell that he was going to kill himself. All the prisoners heard him, laughed, not believing that he was in earnest. A few minutes later Wagonman Irving Kennedy walked into the cell room and saw Blake's body hanging against the door of his cell. Kennedy yelled for the turnkey and the body was cut down. It was still warm, but although Dr. J. J. Clark was summoned and promptly came, his efforts to resuscitate the suicide were unavailing.

Blake had tied one end of his handkerchief to a bar of his cell door, about six feet from the floor, and fastened the handkerchief about his neck. His feet touched the floor, so he had evidently drawn them up to keep them off the floor and slowly strangled to death.

MAY YOHE FAILS TO FIND STRONG

REACHES PARIS AND WAITS IN VAIN FOR WORD FROM HIM.

Suffers Terribly from Sprained Knee and from Hysteria—Emphatically Denies That She Intends to Return to the Stage.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PARIS, Aug. 3.—May Yohe reached Paris this morning, but up to tonight she had not seen Putnam Bradlee Strong or learned where he is.

Miss Yohe reached the railroad station here at 6 o'clock this morning. She suffered greatly and was unable to walk or stand as a result of having sprained her knee on the eve of her departure from London yesterday. Miss Yohe's nerves were completely unstrung. She had to be carried to a carriage at the station and to her room upon her arrival at the hotel where she is staying. The doctor who was summoned prescribed complete repose and would not allow her to see anyone during the day. He said rest for at least one week would be necessary to permit the recovery of her injured knee.

Miss Yohe became calmer this evening and insisted upon taking a short drive in the Bois de Boulogne. A reporter saw Miss Yohe tonight. She was evidently greatly disappointed at not having heard from Strong, and said:

"I came here straightway upon receiving a message in London from Mr. Strong through a friend that unless I came to meet him in Paris he would do away with himself in 48 hours; but I have not seen or heard anything of him yet, nor do I know where he is. He said he would telegraph me to the hotel here, but I have received nothing. I do not want anybody to think I am running after Mr. Strong, for I am not; but I feel that if he comes to me and acts like a man, I can forgive him and forget his cruel treatment. That is why I came here."

"I sacrificed everything," went on Miss Yohe, with tears in her eyes, "to my love for him, and feel it bitterly hard to be treated in this way."

She then opened a gold locket which she wore at her throat and showed two photographs of Strong. She said she had three more photographs of him on the mantelpiece in her bedroom.

As soon as Miss Yohe is well enough to travel she is going to Genoa to redeem the jewels pawned there. She deposited the jewels she brought with her and her pawn tickets with the management of her hotel.

When asked if she intended to reappear on the stage, Miss Yohe replied, emphatically:

"I do not; I received an offer while in London from an American impresario to appear in Paris, but I declined it."

Miss Yohe said she and her mother had enough money to live on comfortably.

HEAT CLAIMED THE LIVES OF SIX PERSONS

Frightful Record of Season Was Maintained Yesterday.

TEMPERATURE REACHED 90

Thousands Suffered and Sweltered and Had It Been a Week Day, Many More Would Have Fallen Victims to Sun's Deadly Rays.

The heat continues to hold up its dreadful record and six deaths were reported from that cause yesterday. The prostrations were fewer than on Saturday, because of the fact that but few of the men in the mills were working, but scores fell victims for brief periods to the heat and humidity.

The temperature reached 90, the highest mark for some time, and the suffering, although not so general as on a working day, was intense. As a result thousands sought refreshment and coolness in the parks, and trolley rides enjoyed a wave of popularity.

The Dead.

MRS. MARY MASON, 88 years old, of No. 56 Author street, died of heat exhaustion yesterday afternoon.

EMILY M'GAURK, of No. 2 Dinwiddie street, died of heat prostration yesterday morning.

MABEL ISAMAN, 2 years old, of No. 1 Carlisle place, died of heat exhaustion yesterday afternoon.

GLADYS LEWIS, of No. 2509 Larkins alley, died of heat exhaustion yesterday.

VIOLA PARRY, aged 8 years, daughter of John Parry, living in Third avenue, Homestead, died yesterday as the result of heat prostration suffered on Saturday.

JOHN TOPPING, infant, aged 9 months, son of John Topping of No. 119 Twelfth avenue, died yesterday from the effects of Saturday's heat.

Fair and Cooler Today.

There have been hotter days than yesterday in Pittsburgh this season, according to the thermometer, but to judge from actual feeling, the 90 degrees maximum marked by the gauge was equivalent to the 96 degrees, the maximum on the hottest day this summer. The morning opened cool, the mercury registering only 72 degrees at 8 a. m., but there was so much humidity that, although the breeze that blew in the morning worked hard all day in efforts to ameliorate conditions, the temperature was actually oppressive, even in shaded places.

Chicago was the coolest place in the country, the maximum being the same as Pittsburgh's minimum, 72 degrees. Dodge City, out on the wind-swept Kansas prairie, sweltered under 102 degrees. Indianapolis, Columbus and Washington had the same maximum as Pittsburgh. The weather bureau in Washington forecasts fair and cooler weather for today.

DESPONDENT FROM LOVE.

John Rehman Had Faithless Sweetheart, Drank Carbolic Acid and Died.

While mentally deranged, John Rehman, 23 years old, of Bridgeville station, on the Panhandle railroad, committed suicide at 8 o'clock last night by drinking carbolic acid at the home of his father and died about a half hour later from its effects. He had been melancholy for some time over a love affair, which seemed to unbalance his mind.

He remained about the house yesterday and was moody. Last night he went upstairs, got a bottle of carbolic acid that his mother used for house cleaning. He went to his room and drank the contents. His groans were heard downstairs and his father ran to his room and found him unconscious with the vial clasped in his hand.

Physicians were sent for, but when they arrived said the man was beyond their aid. He died about ten minutes after their arrival. Rehman was a miner and was known as a steady industrious young man. He was engaged some months ago, but it is said the young woman threw him over for another.

COMPLETED THEIR UNION.

Carriage Drivers Getting Ready to Discourage the Sunday Funeral.

The carriage drivers of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, who plan to better their working conditions and ultimately to discourage the vogue of the Sunday funeral by demanding double pay for work on the Sabbath, completed their organization last night at a hall, corner of First and East streets, Allegheny. There are now nearly 300 drivers in the organization, and this is to be extended to include all before the move to better conditions is undertaken.

The meeting last night elected permanent officers as follows: Michael Riley, president; John J. Hoban, vice president; Robert Sheehan, secretary-treasurer; Charles Earner, recording secretary; Thomas Kelly, correspondent; John Pryle, conductor; Norman Solomon, warden; Edward Kelly, J. H. Carey and R. H. Wilson, trustees.

The organization is charted as Carriage Drivers' Local No. 448, Team Drivers' International union. The local was launched by Organizer Calvin Wyatt of the American Federation of Labor, and is said to have good representation at every livery establishment in the two cities.

FATE OF A BANDIT.

Captured by Philippine Constabulary, But Sprang Out of a Boat and Was Drowned.

MANILA, Aug. 3.—Pablo Muros, a bandit who had terrorized the island of Romblon for 10 years, was captured by the native constabulary on the neighboring island of Sibuyan.

With his arms bound he was placed in a boat to be conveyed to Romblon, but sprang overboard in a dash for liberty and was drowned.

St. Paul's Cathedral in Danger.

LONDON, Aug. 4.—This morning the Daily Mail says one of the great porticos of St. Paul's cathedral threatens to collapse unless thorough repairs are undertaken.

OFFICER KNOCKED OUT.

Pursued Highwayman at Charleroi Landed Brick in His Pursuer's Solar Plexus.

CHARLEROI, PA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—At 12:30 this morning as Officers Murray and Walker were taking three disorderly characters to the lock up they discovered three men robbing Fred Mitchell. One was holding a revolver to Mitchell's head, while the others were searching his pockets.

On seeing the officers the highwaymen ran. Walker started in pursuit when one of them turned and fired three shots, none of which took effect. The fugitives ran toward the railroad and back of Lee Lutes' feed store.

As Walker turned the corner of the building he was struck in the stomach with a brick, thrown by one of the gang. The blow put him out for the time being and they escaped.

OVERWORK LED TO HIS DEATH.

Craneman Edward Johnson of Carnegie Killed While Asleep on the Tracks.

Edward Johnson, 24 years old, of Carnegie, was killed last night by being run over by an engine in the Carnegie yards of the Panhandle railroad. He was sitting on the track at the time and was apparently asleep. He was employed on the wreck train as a craneman, and shortly before meeting his death told several friends that he had 10 days overtime during July, but had lost a great deal of sleep. His head and shoulders were severed from his body. The remains were taken to Steele's undertaking rooms in Carnegie. Johnston came to Carnegie about three years ago and was well known and popular among the young people of the town.

EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED.

No One Killed But a Dozen Persons Are Injured, Some Seriously.

CADILLAC, MICH., Aug. 3.—An excursion on the Ann Arbor railroad, made up of 11 coaches and carrying 700 people, was wrecked six miles north of this place at 9:45 o'clock this morning. So far as known no one was killed, but about a dozen persons were injured, some seriously.

The train was bound from Durand to Crystal Lake and Frankfort, and was running about 35 miles an hour. It is believed the wreck was caused by the flange breaking on one of the wheels of the combination baggage and smoker, next to the engine.

ing sight. Afterward the street was cleared of people for a block. There was only a glance to be had before the retreat of the crowd to get away from the choking dust.

It was shortly before 4 o'clock in the afternoon when there was a crash and the south wall of the building parted from that adjoining, about six inches at the top, the base of the near pillar keeping its place, while at the top it was about five inches away. This only broke one of the large plate glass windows of the lower floor, the other remaining intact. The building stood this way for a half hour. Occasionally there was a rattling sound and some bricks would loosen and fall between the parted walls.

Shortly before 5 o'clock, when the crowd had grown quite dense, the structure swayed out fully five feet to the north, the iron pillars of the first floor bending down.

Hesitated in Fall.

For probably two seconds the building stood so, the iron pillars seemingly struggling to sustain the weight. Then the entire structure dropped in a heap, most of the debris falling into the basement of the new Phipps building. The front did not lurch into the street, as the superintendent of building inspection had feared. The electric light wire cable overhead at the curbstone was not broken as feared, a thing which might have wrought great havoc and possible fire.

The Gazette photographer occupied a place of vantage in a second-story window of the Red Lion hotel. His camera was set to catch the best possible view of the falling building. It came when the structure swayed slightly for a second or two as it stood about five feet away from the adjoining building at the top. Other views were taken as the structure was bearing away from its neighbor.

When Capt. Brown, the superintendent of building inspection, appeared on the scene he announced that the building would certainly fall and ordered that braces be used to protect the walls of the adjoining structure, occupied by W. Howard Morrison. He said that he regarded this wall as safe, but that it must be protected. The wall is torn where two chimney flues were parted and it stands six stories high.

A $1,000,000 Successor.

The Phipps building is to occupy all of the block from Duquesne way and cover the site of the demolished building on Sixth avenue, extending back to the alley adjoining the Natatorium.

Its erection will cost upward of $1,000,000. It will be known as the Bessemer building, and was designed by Architect Grosvenor Atterbury, Astor court, New York. The work on the excavations and the concrete foundation work has been going forward slowly under the supervision of H. B. Naylor.

A crowd of laborers went to work to clear the debris soon after the collapse. Mr. Naylor ordered that an army of teams and men be added to the force this morning, so as to promptly clear the sidewalk.

Capt. Brown and Mr. Naylor passed a few jokes as soon as the building was down. Both were relieved that no one was injured.

Many Were Reckless.

The crowd had a merry time of it while the building was settling for its final collapse. Before a patrol wagon had brought ropes to cut off the street within danger lines, passersby would venture immediately in front of the building where the front wall leaned over the street. Officers and crowd would yell at them, and it either took an argument to turn them away or they stubbornly passed the danger point.

The property and wrecked building was owned by Anton Lutz, the Allegheny brewer, for some years, and was sold by him to Henry Phipps only last April. Mr. Lutz had intended to tear down the building and erect on the property a six-story stag hotel, and had the plans ready to submit to the contractors to bid on when Mr. Phipps' contractors found that in excavating for the cellar of the big office building Mr. Phipps intended to erect, it would possibly weaken the side wall of the Lutz building, consequently Mr. Phipps concluded to purchase from Mr. Lutz, who obtained a much larger price than he had refused for the property a few weeks previous.

WEST ETNA CHURCH'S SOLEMN DEDICATION

Congregation of All Saints Use Their Temporary Church for the First Time.

Services dedicating the new All Saints' Roman Catholic church of West Etna were held yesterday at 10 a. m. The church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers, was crowded. Solemn high mass was sung by the Rev. Father Adolph Keller, after which the dedicatory sermon was delivered by the Rev. Father Duffner of the Holy Name Roman Catholic church of Troy hill, Allegheny. The Rev. Father Woeffel of St. Martin's church of the West End, Pittsburgh, delivered a sermon in German and in English.

In the celebration of the mass Father Keller was assisted by Father Greiner of Bloomfield and Father Duffner.

A special musical program was rendered by the church choir, assisted by the church organist, Miss Bowen of Etna, and an orchestra from Sharpsburg. In the afternoon Father Duffner blessed two sacred statues in the church, one of St. Anthony and one of the Sacred Heart. Vesper service and the benediction followed.

The church, which is a small, temporary frame structure, is nicely furnished and can accommodate the congregation until the handsome permanent structure, which is to be commenced soon, has been completed. Plans have been made for the erection of a large school and parish house in addition to the new church building, and work will be begun soon on the buildings.

ROBBED HIS FATHER.

Young Goodman Then Starts to Atlantic City With His Plunder.

D. Goodman, a saloonkeeper of No. 144 Frankstown avenue, yesterday afternoon discovered that his 14-year-old son had broken open the till and removed $32, leaving a note stating he was off for Atlantic City. The father reported the matter to the police and then went down town.

Upon his return home he found the rear door had been pried open. He called Police Officer Edward Frank and an investigation led to the discovery of a man named Charles Brown, who was sleeping, or feigning sleep, on the front porch. Brown was arrested as a suspicious person and taken to No. 6 police station. Nothing was found to be missing when the house was examined.

BURNING OF MORTGAGE.

McKees Rocks Methodists Hold a Big Celebration.

Having paid off the mortgage that has incumbered the Methodist Episcopal church in McKees Rocks the congregation, thankful that there will be no more "interest" collections and that the money paid into the church can be devoted to useful purposes, will tonight burn the mortgage which has got back into their hands.

There will be quite a celebration. The congregation will meet in the church, the Rev. Dr. T. N. Boyle will make the leading address and members of the congregation will give expression to the general gladness.

LIGHTNING STRIKES CHURCH.

Steeple Shattered and Heavy Timbers Fall Into Streets at Freeport.

FREEPORT, PA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—This place was visited by a severe electrical storm this afternoon about 4 o'clock. Several houses were struck by lightning, trees uprooted and split, and Buffalo creek was at flood stage.

The steeple of the Methodist Episcopal church was shattered and the heavy timbers blown to the street. No one was injured. A large barn, about two miles back of town was struck by lightning and burned.

SMITH'S TROOPS NOT TOO SEVERE WITH NATIVES

General Declares He Only Expected Reprimand as Result of Court-Martial.

TRIED TO DO HIS DUTY

Says People of Samar Are Savages and Cannot Be Treated as Though Civilized—Inhabitants of Luzon in Higher Class.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

San Francisco, Aug. 3.—Gen. Jacob H. Smith, who returned last Friday from Manila, will spend several days in this city and then go to his home in Portsmouth, O. Speaking on the subject for the first time since his arrival, Gen. Smith said today of his forced retirement from the army:

"It was an unwelcome surprise to me. I naturally supposed that I would receive a reprimand as a result of the verdict of the court-martial, but nothing more. I have always tried to do my duty in a conscientious manner and conduct myself as a soldier. I am still in the government's service and not at liberty to discuss recent personal occurrences. I could be as readily court-martialed now as if I were not on the retired list.

"I spent most of the time I was in the islands in and around Samar. I always tried to do what seemed best for the service in both districts. The natives of Luzon seem considerably more civilized than those of the other islands. Some of those in Samar are nothing but savages, and, of course, cannot be treated like civilized people. They would resort to most barbarous methods of warfare at times. Instances of the torture and slaughter of American soldiers are very numerous. Anyone of my commands knows that they were not unduly severe with the natives. I have always tried to conduct my campaigns according to military regulations.

"There is no use asking me to talk about other things. It would not be military. It would be of no use. I am a soldier and take what is coming to me. It is not for me to say whether I deserve it or not. I have done what I thought was right and am ready to settle down in quiet."

ENTIRE COUNCIL ARRESTED

Borough Officials of New Kensington Accused of Lifting Debt Above Legal Limits.

Six members of the New Kensington borough council were arrested Saturday charged with violating a state law in regard to the government of boroughs. They appeared before Justice of the Peace Frank Glass of Parnassus and gave bail in the sum of $5,000 each. They are L. N. Wilson, cashier of the First National bank, New Kensington; William Richardson, superintendent of the American Tin Plate Company's plants; Thomas Bullock, boss roller in the tin plate mill; Joseph Heister, candidate for the legislature on the Republican ticket; F. W. Zilmer, a prominent merchant, and W. D. Snyder, former borough clerk. A warrant is also out for James Reid, who is now in Montana.

They were arrested on the complaint of Arthur Erdman, formerly chief of police of New Kensington, and John Shaffer, and are charged with violation of the statute of April 26, 1874, which provides a penalty for increasing the debt of a borough beyond 7 per cent of the assessed valuation.

The arrests grew out of the awarding by council of a paving contract that they to $50,000, and it is alleged that they granted warrants to the amount of $75,000 for this paving, and it was not then completed.

Passengers Imprisoned In Wreck.

ELGIN, ILL., Aug. 3.—In a street car collision here this afternoon two cars were telescoped and several persons seriously injured. A switch to a siding, upon which stood three empty cars, was left open and a loaded car from Elgin crashed into the standing cars. The passengers were imprisoned for nearly an hour, and every one of the 15 passengers was injured.

EN THOUSAND RANK FROM THE NEW FOUNTAIN

Keenan's Beautiful Gift ppreciated by Thirsty Park Crowds.

R WAS A SPECTATOR

thousand persons yesterday at the marble fountain in High- rk lately presented to the city by Col. Thomas J. Keenan. During the long sultry afternoon the limpid water that poured from snowy stone was a boon to the thirsty visitors, enjoying the cool glades of the pleasure ground.

It was the first time that the water from the spring in the park had been turned into the fountain, and no one who stopped to admire the beautiful work of sculpture, failed to drink from the cool stream. Special Park Policeman Michael Dulain, who would have blossomed forth as an expert mathematician had he not joined the force, stood beside the stone and kept the crowd moving. Policeman Dulain looks at things his own way, and in a few hours had computed an amazing list of figures, on the capacity of the reservoir and the number of persons who patronized it.

Policeman's Figures.

"It's a pint of water that flows out of that hole every two seconds," said Policeman Dulain, and he held a tin cup with his watch to prove it. "Then some drips over and we can say with safety, four gallons of water comes out in every minute. That means 240 an hour and 5,760 a day. Now at least four persons drink here in a minute, and it is a conservative estimate that fixes the number of thirsts quenched at 10,000."

A spectator of the happy throng that gathered in the park was Col. Keenan, the donor of the fountain. Col. Keenan will return to his plantation in the Isle of Pines shortly, and will cause a pair of fine marble benches to be erected beside the path flanking the fountain. The stone will be furnished from the Caribbean quarries on Col. Keenan's estate.

The city likewise will improve the Bunker Hill street entrance to Highland park by the construction of marble steps on the upper path of the zoo. When the work is finished it will add to the majestic appearance of this section of Pittsburgh's popular breathing spot.

A Beautiful Design.

The drinking fountain was designed by G. Moretti, a New York sculptor whose work is well known here, in the wonderful execution of the memorial to Stephen C. Foster.

From a single piece of stone, weighing 10,000 pounds, was chiseled out the figure of a little child in the attitude of listening to the sea echoes in a mammoth shell. The expression of mingled pleasure, surprise and mystery are depicted upon the infant's face with rare skill. The stream of water, fresh from a famous spring in Highland's Hills, flows from the recesses of the shell into a tiny pool, where it is quickly swallowed up and carried into the main reservoir.

The pleasant weather yesterday drew large crowds to all the city parks. The Highland zoo and Lake Carnegie were particularly well patronized. It was a delightful afternoon for the monkeys, but the polar animals were uncomfortable, on account of the intense heat.

ARRESTED HUSBAND.

Mysterious Disappearance of Thomas H. Bonar Resulted in Wife Bringing Suit for Desertion.

The mysterious disappearance of Thomas H. Bonar of No. 98 Sarah street, Allegheny, who suddenly left his home and family on the morning of July 15 to go to work in the paint department of the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago railroad shops, was partly cleared up yesterday, his wife made information against him before Alderman David McKelvey on Saturday evening, in which she charges her husband with desertion and non-support. Yesterday Constable Robert Alexander and William R. Arrell, a brother of Mrs. Bonar, went out beyond Perrysville to secure the person of Bonar, and last night returned with their prisoner, who was locked up. He will get a hearing today.

After the disappearance of Bonar a full description of him, with his picture, was published in The Gazette. It was stated that for two weeks previous to his leaving home he had not been working, as he said he was unwell. It was thought that his illness affected his mind, and that he had wandered away. Mrs. Bonar after trying to locate the whereabouts of her missing husband, sent for her brother, William R. Arrell of Newark, N. J., who has since been trying to locate Bonar.

About 11 o'clock last Friday night, Mrs. Bonar received the first word of her husband, since his disappearance, 18 days previously. It came from Nicholas Eberhardt, who conducts a hotel known as the Five Mile house, on the Perrysville road. "The message stated," said Mrs. Bonar at her home yesterday afternoon, "that my husband had come into the house and Mr. Eberhardt that afternoon, apparently sane. My brother and John Beaty went out early the next morning but they could not find him. On the advice of friends I then went before Alderman David McKelvey and made a charge of desertion and non-support against my husband.

"This morning about 1:30 o'clock I received a telephone station in Perrysville avenue, stating that my husband had again been seen out there. My brother-in-law ordered a carriage and taking Constable Robert Alexander went after my husband."

REASON FOR DISARMING.

European Sovereigns Must Save Their Strength for Commercial War on America.

ROME, Aug. 3.—With regard to the statement in these dispatches under date of July 13, that one of the principal questions of discussion between King Victor Emmanuel and the czar of Russia, on the occasion of the former's visit to St. Petersburg, would be the reduction of armaments, it is learned that those sovereigns argue that the time of European wars is almost over, as their interests are so great in other continents that it is not worth while to fight for a strip of land here and there in Europe.

Consequently the large armaments which are now intended for European conflicts might be reduced or transformed for the defense of colonial interests, the gain being devoted to the improvement of commerce and industry and for a collective fight against the common danger—American competition.

HEAVY EXPLOSION OF GAS COSTS LIFE

MRS. IRWIN FELKNER FATALLY BURNED AT WEST HOMESTEAD.

When She Started to Light Her Kitchen Fire There Was an Explosion of Natural Gas That Partly Wrecked the House.

A tremendous explosion of natural gas occurred in West Homestead yesterday morning. The house in which the explosion took place was partially wrecked, one woman was fatally burned and two men, her husband and brother-in-law, were severely burned, cut and bruised.

The scene of the explosion was in the 12-roomed house occupied by four families at Nos. 325-327 Cherry street, in West Homestead. One of the three-room apartments was occupied by Irwin Felkner and his wife and his brother, Thomas Felkner. Saturday Mrs. Felkner spent away from her home with her sister. Returning between 7 and 8 o'clock yesterday morning to prepare breakfast for her husband and brother-in-law, she detected the odor of gas in the kitchen and partly opened a window. Then she struck a match for the purpose of starting a fire. The force of the explosion was tremendous and the noise was so heavy that it was plainly heard at Munhall, over one mile away. The kitchen was filled with flame and the woman was wrapped in it. Everything in the kitchen was wrecked. The rear brick wall was blown out. Doors and their frames and the windows were blown out and the entire building was shaken.

The door from the kitchen to the room in which the two men were sleeping was shattered and blown in on them by the force of the explosion and the flame swept through the opening, setting fire to the bed on which they lay. Stunned by the awful report and not knowing just what had happened the two men were the next instant horrified by the unfortunate woman bursting in on them. She seemed to be aflame from head to foot. They endeavored to throw something about her, but the bed clothes were by this time burning fiercely and before they could act the woman had made her way to the street, where she fell on the pavement, blackened and charred, the flesh falling from parts of her blistered body, but with enough breath left to tell how the explosion had occurred. It was not long until she became unconscious.

Neighbors alarmed by the explosion and by the woman's piercing screams ran to the place and put out the fire and did what they could to relieve the sufferings of the woman and of her husband, who was badly burned about the head. Thomas Felkner was not so seriously injured.

The woman kept on top of her kitchen range a small gas heater, the gas to which was supplied through a rubber hose running to the supply pipe. It is supposed that a leak in the hose permitted the gas to escape until the kitchen was practically filled.

CROWDS WERE AT PARKS.

Rain Only Kept Attendance from Breaking All Records at Traction Resorts.

Until the rain interfered the attendance at Calhoun park promised to break all Sunday records yesterday. The attraction was the Kilties band of Toronto, officially known as the Gordon Highlanders, and who will be at Kennywood all week. There are 40 of them dressed in kilts and all are first-class musicians in his majesty's service in Canada. The afternoon concert opened with Leuther's "Fest" overture and closed with "Auld Lang Syne" by the Kilties chorus of male voices. The excellent choral work was a novelty in a big brass band. Bagpipe solos were rendered by Pipe Sergeant D. Ferguson.

The other three traction parks also had large crowds afternoon and evening. The Homestead Library band and Aurie Dagwell were at Oakwood. Out at Southern Rocereto's band gave two excellent concerts. William Minto, a new trombone soloist, played "The Song Without Words" and was liberally applauded.

The Wood-Hall Concert band and the Germania Choral union was the attraction at Kennywood.

A number of "park parties" of Scotch people have been organized to visit Kennywood during the week in honor of the Kilties. They will be there every evening and almost every afternoon, but Wednesday, when they go to Southern park. In response to a general request from the Odd Fellows, who are holding a big reunion at Kennywood that day, Dumont's minstrels, playing all week at Southern, will appear at Kennywood Wednesday afternoon and evening.

HUMAN BONES FOUND BENEATH WHITE HOUSE

Dug Out of a Stone Vault Which Formed Part of an Older Building.

THE WORKMEN IN TERROR

Every Effort Made to Keep the Gruesome Discovery a Secret. Traces of the Fire Which the British Kindled—Faulty Arches.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Workmen employed in tearing out the interior of the White House last week unearthed under the basement a portion of a human skeleton. The discovery created consternation among the superstitious negro laborers. They were kept at work with difficulty.

Efforts have been made to keep the discovery a secret pending a more careful investigation of the bones exhumed from such an unlooked-for but historical resting place. The workmen have been cautioned not to discuss the subject, and the most rigid regulations have been adopted to prevent persons not actually employed in the mechanical work from entering the building. Even clerks and messengers belonging to the executive force are excluded under the existing order.

The mysterious discovery was made while the laborers were engaged in excavating a sub-cellar below the floor of the basement for the new heating apparatus. After digging down about ten feet a massive stone vault was encountered. It proved to be what was apparently the foundation walls of an old house that had evidently stood on the same spot where the White House was afterward erected.

In this same excavation was found a large oven embedded in the stone wall, and near the oven were the bones. It was the discovery of the bones in conjunction with the oven that terrorized the workmen and caused them to believe that they had unearthed an ancient tomb.

During the tearing-out process many other interesting discoveries have been made. For instance, in the famous East room, evidences of the fire of 1814, when the mansion was partly destroyed by the British, were disclosed. As the walls were cut out for the placing of the new iron beams, pieces of old charred timbers were found, having been burned close up to the stone walls and left undisturbed when the portion which was burned was reconstructed.

According to experts, the outside walls of the White House are of excellent construction and said to be more substantial than those of modern times. Fault is found, however, with some of the interior brick arches and construction of olden times. Some of the latter were found to be dangerously weak and in a state of decay. In a few places the old foundation was opened and found to be in need of repair. New retaining walls have been erected to brace the weak places, so that there need be no further apprehension about the foundation of the White House being insecure.

MATRIMONY OR DEATH DEMANDED BY GIRL

Shoots Herself Three Times and First Accuses Young Man of Crime. Chance for Recovery.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHARLEROI, PA., Aug. 2.—Miss Myrtle Claybough, daughter of the proprietor of the Girard hotel at Brownsville, was shot and possibly fatally wounded at a lodging house owned by Mrs. Bressel here, this morning at 9 o'clock. Three shots were fired, one entered the breast near the heart and lodged in the back; another passed through the shoulder and the third through the arm.

The young woman came here last night with Charles Booth. He was not in the room when the girl was found wounded after the shots were fired, but she told the officers that Booth had fired the shots and escaped. Booth was found in the cellar of James Kenyon's residence, with a number of companions. He denied the shooting and declared he could prove an alibi. He was sent to jail and the girl's father sent for.

Later the girl called for the officers again and made a new statement. She said Booth left the lodging house half an hour before the shooting, and that she shot herself with suicidal intent.

A letter written August 2, signed by Miss Claybough, was found in Booth's pocket, in which she told him if she did not marry her she would kill herself.

Mr. Claybough took his daughter home this evening.

Lightning Destroys Three Buildings.

WILKESBARRE, PA., Aug. 3.—The general store of Philip Reilly at Hudson was struck by lightning this evening and in a few minutes the building was enveloped in flames. The fire spread to the residences adjoining and then crossed the street, to the hotel conducted by Vincent Krosko. All three buildings, with their contents, were entirely destroyed. Loss, $20,000.

CHILD CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER CAR

AWFUL ACCIDENT HAPPENED YESTERDAY ON BRADDOCK BRIDGE.

Rosie Sasak Dashed in Front of a Traction Car and Was Instantly Killed. Five Young Women Who Saw Accident Fainted.

Another young life was ground out under the wheels of a traction car yesterday. This victim was Rosie Sasak, the 7-year-old daughter of John Sasak, a Polish laborer, living in Second street, Rankin. Her death was an instant one. The little body was fearfully mangled. Five young women who were riding on the front seat of the car fainted away as they heard the little one's single agonizing cry and then felt the wheels grind and crush the tender bones and flesh.

The accident happened on what is known as the West Braddock bridge, over which one of the lines of the Monongahela division, the yellow car division of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, runs. Little Rosie and some of her companions were playing on and about the bridge, the game or sport they were engaged in requiring much running about and chasing of each other. Just as the car was crossing the bridge, Rosie, looking over her shoulder and laughing at the companion who was chasing her, darted from behind one of the bridge girders and directly in front of the car. It was all over in an instant. The motorman no sooner laid eyes on the child than she was under the wheels.

On the front seat with the motorman were five young women, all dressed in their Sunday best. They caught sight of the little one darting out from behind the bridge girder, heard the motorman's gasp of horror, the child's scream and then came the awful crushing sensation. The next second the five young women had collapsed in dead faints, adding to the confusion and distress.

ENGINE IS WHOLE TRAIN.

B. & O. Officials Have New Scheme for Inspection Tours.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3.—A unique engine has just been completed by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at its shops in this city. It is designed for the use of officials in making inspection trips. Though called an inspection engine, it really answers the purpose of a whole train.

The engine has a small passenger coach constructed on top of the boiler back of the smokestack. The boiler is heavily covered with asbestos and the floor of the car with brussels carpet. The seats in the coach are arranged in amphitheater style, so as to give everyone in the car a full view of the track and surrounding country.

TAKING LONG WALK.

Couple Leaves Richmond, Va., Overland for Old Home at Dayton, O.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3.—To walk from Richmond, Va., to Dayton, O., is the task set by a young couple who left here today. They stated at the office of the superintendent of charities that they had eloped from Dayton four months ago and had gone to Washington, where they were married, and they showed the marriage certificate. From Washington they went to Richmond, where the young man secured employment as a conductor on a trolley car. Then came a strike and the husband lost his position and they decided to return to Dayton.

New Castle Testing Water Supply.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—This city is about to institute exhaustive tests to determine if pure water can be found in this locality in quantities sufficient to supply the municipality. Prof. E. T. Aschman of Pittsburgh, official chemist of the state board of health, will be employed to make tests of all the streams in this part of the country.

HEAVY FLOODS DROVE MR. QUAY OUT OF MAINE

Likely to Rent a Cottage in Atlantic City for Rest of the Season.

CONFERENCE IS A SECRET.

Senator Penrose Not Yet Ready to Disclose What Occurred—Gov. Stone Not Present—State Chairman Picking Up the Threads.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3.—"No statement will be given out concerning our meeting here," was the reply of Senator Boies Penrose when questioned this afternoon by The Gazette representative.

The inference drawn from his manner and words was that he and Senator Quay had decided that there was no necessity at present for informing the public as to what was done at the conference last night, and, further, that the senior senator had been out of touch with Pennsylvania politics while on his vacation and did not care to say anything until he had thoroughly acquainted himself with the situation.

Senator Quay was not at the hotel, where he was a guest when this announcement was made. He went over to Brigantine Beach early in the morning, and had not returned when The Gazette correspondent called to see him. Senator Penrose was asked if Gov. Stone had attended last night's conference, and he replied in the negative. He said he knew the governor was in Atlantic City, but as yet they had not met, the answer conveying the intimation that probably the senators and the governor would see each other at close range before departing.

When questioned as to the cause of Senator Quay's sudden return from Maine, where, it was believed, he had intended to spend the summer, Senator Penrose said the reason was simply that his colleague had been flooded out. The excessive and widespread rains in Maine had spoiled the fishing and made the woods untenable, so Senator Quay packed up his traps and came to Atlantic City. His stay here may be prolonged, for he is entertaining the idea of leasing a cottage and remaining until the end of the season.

Senator Penrose good-naturedly declined to be interviewed on political conditions in Pennsylvania, except to say that he and Senator Quay would go to Philadelphia tomorrow for the opening of the Republican headquarters in that city.

TEN PAGES.

The Widening Project.

The only thing approaching criticism of the proposition to widen Virgin alley from Smithfield to Wood streets appears in the declaration of a contemporary that it is not enough to do this, but that the alley should be widened its entire length. Unquestionably the widening of Virgin alley the whole distance from Grant street to Liberty street is highly desirable, but there is no need to delay the improvement of a portion of the alley to secure the consent of property owners on the upper and lower portions of it for the greater improvement. The widening of all Virgin alley will be brought about sooner by authorizing a portion of the work now than by delaying it until the interests unaffected, except beneficially, by the present improvement, are won over. Once the benefits derived from the new fifty-foot street from Smithfield to Wood are made manifest, there will be a greater desire for the extension of the thoroughfare above Smithfield and below Wood. The delays experienced in the widening of Diamond alley are sufficient to discourage an attempt to widen Virgin alley throughout its entire length at one time. It is better to welcome the improvement that can be secured without delay than to risk its loss by straining for a greater improvement.

Paris' School Trouble.

Paris is by no means done with the clerical school question. Premier Combes declines to abate the severity of his order closing the church schools, which is according to law, and the tension grows greater day by day. Meantime the socialists are planning anti-clerical demonstrations which may precipitate serious trouble at any moment. Paris is peculiar. In another city one might regard the crisis past once orderly negotiations had begun, but not so in Paris. The Parisians are of such emotional nature that no man can tell at what moment the populace may run mad, nor, if once started, to what extremes it may go before stopping to make a reckoning.

Pittsburgh's Real Standing.

Fit accompaniment for the unprecedented freight traffic of the Pittsburgh district is the record-breaking passenger business during this summer. Even railroad officials are astonished at the rush to seashore, mountain, lake and northern resorts. For a time it was regarded as merely an accumulation due to the lateness of the arrival of warm weather, but the movement has increased with the lapse of time until it has proven beyond question the greatest ever known.

This heavy vacation travel is one of the evidences of Pittsburgh's progress. This city and district have been growing at a rate hardly suspected by the railroad people, or others. But at last everybody is able to see that this has become one of the great centers of population of the world. Unfortunately it could not take its proper place in the census and is not given its real standing in any statistics except those of bank exchanges, but in spite of municipal diffusion it is rapidly coming to be appreciated for what it really is. And Pittsburghers away from home are carrying the fame of their city with them.

Herbert's New Honor.

Michael Henry Herbert, who succeeds the late Lord Pauncefote as ambassador to the United States, has given "a handle to his name" by King Edward. Ambassador Herbert is now a knight commander of the order of St. Michael and St. George, and as such is entitled to use the prefix "sir." Just as Romeo would have been as sweet to Juliet named Montagu or anything else, Ambassador Herbert would have been as welcome to the United States without as with his knightly prefix. However, something of a compliment to our republican government is involved in the honor conferred on the man who will represent the person of his sovereign at our capital. Knighthood is one of those dignities that are conferred on persons who have won distinction in some field of usefulness, and in conferring knighthood on his new representative to the United States the British monarch, while giving Mr. Herbert a distinction that undoubtedly has been earned, bestows it on him at this time, in all probability, as a delicate intimation to the United States that it is not an untried man that is being sent to be ambassador here, but one who by his services and attainments has deserved the important post. We will accept it in that way, and it will not lessen the efforts of the people at Washington to make Sir Michael's stay in the United States as ambassador less pleasant than it was when he was here in a minor capacity and showed his good taste and appreciation of our republican institutions by marrying an American girl.

A Cause Almost Lost.

President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers has done all that one man might to free his organization from the odium of the riotous outbreak at Shenandoah. He has done what has been possible, too, to rehabilitate the strike in the anthracite region, when it had been well nigh lost by a resort to violence. But it remains to be seen whether even a wise leader can restrain the turbulent element in that region. Quiet has been restored temporarily, with the aid of the state troops, but even the presence of the soldiery is irritating to those among the strikers and their sympathizers, who imagine that a certain amount of intimidation helps their cause.

The season is at hand when the mine operators must start their works or relinquish all hope of filling ordinary orders. To get a supply of coal to the lake cities and the northwest it is essential that it shall begin moving very soon. This factor in the situation has been favorable to the strikers. It might have compelled concessions in a short time, had the hotheads not felt it necessary to keep a few men out of the mines by force. The rioting has practically turned the scale of advantage, and unless Mr. Mitchell can keep his people well in hand it will be turned altogether. Violence is always a losing venture.

King Edward's Health.

News of King Edward's recovery that gives every promise that he will be able to undergo the coronation ceremonies this week is gratifying to everybody except the prophets of evil. The sensation mongers who have insisted the monarch is suffering from a fatal malady and who are hoping that some disaster will give a semblance of confirmation to their dire predictions are not pleased with the intelligence that the king is able to walk about the deck of his yacht. It is, of course, within the bounds of possibility that something may happen to prevent the coronation, but at present there is nothing to warrant any belief that such will be the case. Life with all of us is very uncertain, and death will come to every mortal man in the course of time—king and peasant alike. Yet the prophesying of evil on the mere chance that it may come true is a grewsome occupation not relished by healthy people. It is a morbid mania, uncanny and disagreeable.

The Jolly Recruiting Officer.

The "jollying committee" detailed by the navy department to enlist recruits for Uncle Sam's sea service has departed from Pittsburgh after a week's stay, with seventy-two enlistments to its credit. It will have headquarters this week in Wheeling. In Pittsburgh it found a better class of men than it ordinarily finds in the places where it seeks would-be heroes of the sea. It will probably make the same discovery at Wheeling, and also at the next town in which it opens its books, and the next, and the next, and so on ad infinitum, just as it probably found a better class of men in towns previously visited than recruiting parties are accustomed to find. In fact, it is the duty of recruiting officers for Uncle Sam's army and navy to find this condition wherever they seek men, and the files of the newspapers in all the towns in which they do business will probably show that they never fail to make the discovery, and rarely later than their first day. All of which goes to show that this is a great country and we are a great people.

A Persistent Fiction.

Few myths are as persistent as that which accredits the midnight marauder of peaceable homes with the power of putting the inmates under the influence of chloroform while they sleep. Every doctor knows it cannot be done. Neither is there any other anaesthetic known to medical science that can be administered to a sleeping man without awakening him. Anaesthesia is not such a simple or easy matter, as the surgeons well know. Yet the report is frequent that burglars have put a householder and his family under the influence of chloroform, preparatory to ransacking his premises.

It is just possible that a burglar might know enough of chemistry or medicine to use one of the soporifics to assist the slumber of his victims. There are a few drugs that induce profound sleep, when inhaled, but chloroform and ether are not among them. Even these vary in their action according to circumstances, or the condition of the subject. It is not probable that burglars carry them. So it is about time the drug end of the burglary story should be dropped. A majority of people sleep soundly enough for the purposes of the cautious burglar without the aid of any inhalent.

The Championship Again.

There is an interesting contest in the National league of baseball clubs for second place, but the championship pennant for 1902 is already almost as clearly won by Pittsburgh as is the pennant of 1901. With 58 more games to play, Pittsburgh needs to win but nine to realize the hopes of Barney Dreyfuss and the large portion of the population classed as "fans" and "rooters." In other words, the Pittsburgh club can lose 49 games and still win the pennant. As it has won 62 and lost but 20 of the 82 games played, its chances for losing are not worth considering.

In the percentage table Pittsburgh stands at the head of the list with .756, and its nearest rival, the Brooklyn club, has but .544 to its credit, the home team having a safe margin of .212. The New Yorks are tail-enders, with but .329, the distance between Brooklyn and New York being therefore .215. The Pittsburgh club, it will be seen, is virtually as far ahead of the club now in second place as that club is in advance of the last club on the list. Therefore it is safe to count the championship chicken as good as hatched. Brooklyn, Chicago and Boston are, however, having a hot struggle for second honor, and it looks like anybody's fight, with no sure thing that either of the three mentioned will hold the position by the time all the games are played.

Adjt.-Gen. Corbin is planning to command the army when Gen. Young is retired. If he should it would make life rather more interesting for him if he happens to have an adjutant general in the department who wants to run the whole machine and has department backing in his ambition.

Once again it is announced the Beaumont gushers have come down to the indignity of being pumped. No wonder. They were stuck in so close to Spindletop heights they might well have exhausted the source of supply long ago.

Bryan declares he does not care who the candidacy may be, provided the principles are right. But is there any other man who would be willing to stand for defeat on Bryan's platform?

With the arrest of two recalcitrants the vaccination fight may be considered open. But if the vaccination is postponed until the case has gone through all the courts it will be almost equivalent to immunity.

There is much public interest in the promised police investigation—interest to see whether it will really investigate or not.

Special Ambassador Whitelaw Reid is home, and there is no telling when he will get a chance to use his knickerbockers.

There is no apparent disposition on the part of the rainmaker to cease his activity.

Convict Tracy continues his triumphal march among the ba-ad men, toward the bad lands.

Colonel Guffey is going through the motions of taking his campaign seriously as though it meant something to him.

A few "dry" days would be welcome in Washington county.

Needed Some "Coaching."

From the New York Sun.

It was not long since the young women in the cataloguing department of the Astor library were laughing at a beginner there who catalogued greek roots under "botany." But some of the mistakes made by beginners elsewhere are just as amusing. Many years ago a young woman who had not yet learned all the intricacies of her work was cataloguing a set of works under "mill." So she wrote:

"Mill on Liberty."

"Ditto on the Floss."

That is one of the historic mistakes that librarians quote, and a newer one is just as amusing. This was the result of a young librarian's inexperience, and read:

"Lead—See Metallurgy."

"Lead—Kindly Light."

"Lead—Poisoning."

A Strenuous Remedy.

From the Chicago Record Herald.

She sighed sadly. There was a far-away, hopeless look in her eyes.

"What is the matter?" her friend asked. "Has some great sorrow come to you?"

"Yes," she answered, "a great sorrow and a painful disappointment. I read an advertisement in one of the ladies' magazines a few days ago that said if I would send 50 cents I would be told how to become beautiful and a favorite in society."

"And you sent the money?"

"I did. The reply was: 'Elope, get found dead in a lonely spot or do something else to have the sensational papers write you up!'"

Seeking New Waters.

From the Philadelphia Record.

Shad were very scarce in Connecticut waters this summer, but appeared in large numbers in the Ohio river, a profitable catch having been made within five miles of Cincinnati. Before 1876 shad were never caught in the Ohio. The first one taken in that year was considered such a curiosity that it was sent to the Smithsonian institute.

TALES FROM RURAL DISTRICTS.

Thanks to the vigorous execution of the game laws in some parts of Pennsylvania, the killing of song birds and insectivorous birds to minister to fashion is becoming a very costly occupation.—Venango Citizen Press.

Attorney W. C. Miller has the distinction of having killed five "skunks" in his back yard during the last month. It takes a brave man to cope with the nasty things.—Faftsman's Journal.

DuBois claims to have the champion bark peeler in the person of John Ross, who peeled and threw out to the road recently eight and one-half cords of hemlock bark from 6 o'clock in the morning to 6 in the evening. It will at least be admitted that Mr. Ross earned his day's wages all right.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

A bloodthirsty mink killed 20 young ducks in one night last week for Mrs. S. W. Stine. The following night Sam laid for the intruder behind a shot gun, and, when Mr. Mink appeared to finish up the contract Sam blazed away in the uncertain moonlight, but missed the mink and mowed down a whole row of his wife's finest cabbage, which happened to be in the direct range of the gun. So there will be a short crop of both ducks and sauer kraut at the Stine home without any decrease in the number of minks in active service.—Lewistown Democrat and Sentinel.

On a recent afternoon as Mr. J. W. Crippen, better known as "Doc" Crippen, was berrying near his farm, a short distance from Galeton, he was bitten on one of his hands by a rattlesnake and he probably owes his life to his prompt and courageous action. With his pocket knife he lacerated his hand near the snake bite and permitted his arm to bleed freely. He than bandaged his arm as tightly as possible with his suspenders and started for home, where he soon had medical attendance. He freely used mud and liquor on the bite before the arrival of the doctors.—Wellsboro Agitator.

FORTS OF GOTHAM PREPARE FOR WAR

Looking After Defenses as Carefully as If Enemy Is Real, Not Sham.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Aug. 3.

New York is deeply interested in the coming maneuvers of the army and navy in September. As a rule, the people of this metropolis take only a perfunctory interest in military and naval matters, regarding them as a professional sideshow with which the ordinary mercantile and industrial world has little to do personally; but the understanding that the many forts in and around New York harbor are to be attacked by an enemy—even though only a sham one—has stirred up the people here to an unusual degree. It is startling to hear that most of the big forts, which to the eye of the layman look impregnable, can be knocked over almost as easily as if they were of cardboard. Some of the experts have declared that, in spite of rigid army rules of secrecy, the plans of many of the fortifications along the Atlantic coast of the United States doubtless are in the hands of foreign powers. If all that is said is true, the attacking force in September will be able to blow several of the forts to perdition with three or four shots. It may be that the ships are no better equipped than the land fortresses, but so far we hear only about the forts, and the warships are an unknown quantity to the public. However all this technical controversy may turn out, it is a fact that work is going on busily at the forts of New York harbor, and that the officers are all doing their best to make it difficult for the ships when they come to look for the weak points of the coast defense. In the natural course of things there is nothing definite to be learned. The rule that American citizens shall not be allowed to examine fortifications, is enforced so closely that nothing can be published of the intricacies of the interior. The trouble seems to be that a great number of workmen are employed where they have full access to the very heart of the mystery, and it is feared that foreign engineers may enlist as laborers with the object of making drawings and descriptions of the means of defense. One consequence of the preparations for the coming maneuvers and sham battles is the appearance of more than the usual number of military and naval officers in the streets of New York.

Surprises in the Weather Report.

It does not surprise anyone to know that in this part of the country there were only six clear days in July. Most of us cannot remember even that small number. It is surprising to learn officially that the mean temperature for the month was that of the past 32 years, namely, 74 degrees. It has been the general impression that this was the coolest July for many years, but it seems that this impression is due mainly to the fact that the nights have been cool. August has begun with sunshine and warmth, and the chances are that it will be strictly a seasonable month.

Early Opening of Theatrical Season.

The theatrical season for the fall and winter began last night with the opening of the Third Avenue theater in which was shown, for the first time this year, the new melodrama, "Gypsy Jack." It was pretty warm last evening, but the theater was crowded and the audience evidently enjoyed the performance to the utmost.

Public Men Turn Interviewers.

When Whitelaw Reid arrived in New York on the steamer Philadelphia yesterday he foreswore the example of many prominent men in the last few years, when approached by newspaper interviewers, in taking the role of questioner himself. He had nothing to say of his own movements or intentions, except that he would report to President Roosevelt before saying anything for publication; but he made up for his reticence in this regard by bombarding the newspaper men with questions as to what had been going on in this country during his absence. Whitelaw Reid, as an editor himself, knows where to get the news in a nutshell, with the opinions of the public thereon reflected in tabloids, and he listened respectfully to all that the reporters had to tell him. At one time it was expected that the interviewer should get as little as possible when seeking the views of a distinguished personage, so that the latter should have a unique field for exploitation; but we have changed all that now, since Li Hung Chang and, later, Wu Ting Fang, came here, with a note of interrogation always displayed, and the newspaper man generally gives as much information as he receives.

Coney Sunday a Little Drier.

Coney Island has had a good day of it, but there has been much less intoxicating liquor sold than usual on a Sunday. There is a new police captain in charge, and he has made his presence felt by enforcing the excise law as strictly as possible. A sandwich is not a "meal" at Coney now. If one wanted a drink, he had to go to a regular hotel and order a full "sit-down meal," with which intoxicants were served to order. But that famous Coney Island beer, with a high collar, was conspicuously absent in the saloons and so-called restaurants where it has flourished for so many years. The "sacred cents" were toned down, and amusements on the island generally were less flamboyant than on previous Sundays. Habitues are not disheartened by the change, however. They have seen these spasmodic reforms before.

Miss Barrymore in a New Comedy.

Ethel Barrymore came home on the steamship Philadelphia and went directly to the home of her uncle, John Drew, in East Hampton. The dainty little actress looks well, and evidently her vacation has done her good. She is to star in a London success called "Carrots." The nickname "Carrots" is bestowed upon red-haired people in England more commonly than it is in this country, but, doubtless, it is well enough understood to give point to the title of Miss Barrymore's play. By the way, it is said that Maurice Barrymore, in the sanitarium near this city, is neither better nor worse than he has been for many months. He is well physically and much of the time his brain seems to be as clear as ever it was.

Preparing to Receive Prince Chen.

Preparations are making in New York to receive fittingly the new Chinese envoy, Prince Chen, who is on the Atlantic on his way to this port. He will be met at the pier by Minister Wu Ting Fang, and, with him, will go to Oyster Bay, where he will be the guest of President Roosevelt.

Partridge's Police Shakeup.

Commissioner Partridge's shakeup of the department has been thorough, and it is the one thing talked about among policemen. Such a shifting around, affecting so many men, has not been seen for a decade, and there is a growing opinion that the commissioner is not so easy as has been supposed. Significant that the police inspector, as well as the captain, taking an active part in the riot on the East Side the other day have both been transferred to distant precincts. Commissioner Partridge says the clubbing and hurly-burly at the rabbi's funeral had nothing to do with the changes, but that statement is taken with a grain of salt by everyone.

Better Walking in Broadway.

For the first time in considerably more than a year the sidewalks along the west side of Herald square, in Broadway, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fifth streets, were open to the public today. The contractors have been hustling for this achievement and they have been successful. On Sunday upper Broadway is a favorite promenade—the promenade, in fact—and the tearing up of the sidewalks in front of the two immense drygoods stores that occupy the two blocks mentioned has been a real hardship. It was hoped that the work could be pushed along so fast that the walks would be passable today, and they are, except for one or two places which could not be completed. More work is necessary on them of course, but they were clear enough today to bring forth many expressions of satisfaction from the crowds passing up and down. Broadway has been torn up worse in the last two years than in a score of years before.

Sweetheart Slayer's Last Night Alive.

Before this issue of The Gazette is in the hands of most of its subscribers at the breakfast table on Monday, young Aaron Halle, who shot and killed his sweetheart, Mary Brannigan, in a crowded department store in this city two years ago, will have given his life in the electric chair at Sing Sing. The murder was one of those spectacular crimes of which every city has its share. The man stepped into the store where the girl was employed as a clerk behind a show case and shot her down then and there. The prison officials say that Halle is spending his last night on earth as calmly as if he had no fear of death, and perhaps he has not.

Gotham Likes Miss Bryan.

Another American girl has awakened more than the usual interest and admiration in this blase New York. It is Miss Ruth Bryan, daughter of W. J. Bryan, known to the world as the chronic presidential candidate. Miss Bryan came cast with her father this time, and when they were at the Victoria hotel together the young lady enjoyed the experience of her first newspaper interview. She made a decidedly favorable impression, and the general sentiment here is that if Mr. Bryan ever should become president of the United States his daughter would be as popular in her position of the first young lady of the land as the bright girl who holds the title now.

The Sunday Excursions.

All the excursion boats in New York harbor were in commission today. Besides the regular holiday-seekers, who always take a trip up the Hudson or to the various seashore resorts on this day of the week, there were several outings of political associations, with music, flags, mountains of sandwiches and enough drinkables to make the party independent of the excise law wherever the boat might happen to land. The weather was not steadily fair as might have been desired. Besides, who cares for the weather, when all else is favorable?

The Bicycle Still Popular.

Bicycling is not dead in this part of the country. This was proved by the hundreds of wheelmen who took part in the century run in Brooklyn today. It was held over what is known as the Long Island course, and a casual glance at the crowd of riders suggested that there were nearly 5,000 of them. Probably there were not many over half that number, but the display made with gay uniforms, flags, ribbons and regalia generally, was not dependent on numbers for its effect. Automobiling is popular in Greater New York, and there are many who like to drive fast horses, but for real, unadulterated enjoyment, there appears to be nothing like the wheel, after all.

"Fiorodora" at the Seaside.

"Fiorodora" has reached the sea waves. The tuneful and merry little opera will open a two weeks' engagement at Manhattan Beach tomorrow night with Edna Wallace Hopper, Helen Redmond, Cyril Scott and the others of the original cast, which has been seen and heard in Pittsburgh more than once. The entertainment in the Manhattan Beach theater, where one can scent the ocean and imbibe the salt breezes while enjoying the stage show, has been better this season than usual, for the simple reason that it has been more diversified. None of the shows have made more than two weeks or so, and the old fault of sameness has been entirely eliminated.

The Pineapple Market.

New York is fond of pineapples. Dealers report a largely increasing demand in this market from year to year, which is said to have been stimulated by a diffusion of knowledge in regard to the healthfulness of the fruit. There is a good supply this year, but not so large as was expected, in consequence of drought in both Florida and the West Indies. The foreign supply comes chiefly from Cuba, with some from Porto Rico and Jamaica at certain seasons, while Florida furnishes pineapples all the year round. Pines are now high, those from Cuba costing from 5 to 15 cents apiece, wholesale, or from $1 50 to $3 50 a crate. Florida pines, which have sold this year from $2 to $5 a crate, are now worth from $2 50 to $3.

Species "Yegg" of Genus Tramp.

The mention in The Gazette a few days ago of two "yeggs" caught in this city charged with robbing a postoffice in Connecticut, has doubtless awakened some curiosity in Pittsburgh as to what a "yegg" really is. According to a detective authority in New York the name "yegg" is a corruption of "John Yeggman," who was about the first tramp with nerve enough to steal instead of beg. As "yegg" now stands, it means a tramp who is too proud or too intelligent to beg for his living, and who in stealing will attempt, even murder, to make it successful. "Yeggs" travel in gangs, usually six in each. This means two "gay cats," or "jigs," who self-maimed with creosote, go around begging and pick out likely places; two "outsiders," or "strong arms," who see that no one disturbs the men inside at work; and two "insiders," or "performers," who have learned the use of high explosives. There are said to be 5,000 "yeggs" in the United States at the present time. Pittsburgh has some.

Iowa and Reciprocity.

From the New York Tribune.

The straightforward declaration upon Cuban reciprocity which was adopted without a dissenting vote by the Iowa Republican convention is another significant indication of the opinion which we have consistently expressed in these columns that the party is overwhelmingly in favor of the president's reciprocity policy, and that it means to rebuke unmistakably those of its members who, in official places, have contributed to the temporary defeat of that policy.

Had Been Forestalled.

From the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Willis G. Moore, chief of the signal service bureau, has invented a machine that will tell when a thunderstorm is within 100 miles. Seems like a man named Morse did something like that way back in the '70s.

DUKE REFUSED TO BECOME PREMIER

Devonshire Was Preferred Over Gladstone by Queen Victoria.

By the MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

To few men falls the lot of receiving the pressing offer of the post of prime minister of an empire so vast as that of Great Britain, and of declining it. Yet that is what the duke of Devonshire, who has just become the leader of the government in the house of lords at Westminster, did twenty years ago.

Queen Victoria, whose feelings toward Mr. Gladstone were none of the friendliest, declined on the defeat of Lord Beaconsfield to send for the grand old man to form an administration, but summoned the duke, who was then Lord Hartington, to Windsor castle, in order to urge him to assume the task of constructing a Liberal cabinet. But Lord Hartington declined the proffered honor which his sovereign urged upon him with such insistence, and it was only in consequence of this, and as the result of his pleadings with her that she ultimately with manifest reluctance requested Gladstone to assume the premiership and to construct an administration in which the duke accepted the secretaryship of state of war.

Premier to Oblige Friend.

Of all the eight dukes of Devonshire there was only one, namely the fourth bearer of the title, who consented to be prime minister, and then it was merely "to oblige" and on the understanding that he accepted the nominal presidency of the cabinet in order to extricate his friend, the elder Pitt, from a difficult situation. It was in 1756. The loss of Minorca, the surrender of Braddock, the capture of Calcutta and the tragedy of the Black Hole at the latter place had rendered the continuance of the Newcastle administration impossible. Pitt became master of the situation. But the king absolutely declined to have him as prime minister, and certain leading members of his party declined to serve under the great statesman, who eventually died as the earl of Chatham. A deadlock ensued which was only terminated by the duke of Devonshire consenting to become titular premier, while Pitt, the actual head of the administration, or at any rate its moving spirit, became secretary of state and leader of the house of commons.

It is perhaps just as well that the present duke has never become prime minister of Great Britain. For he has the reputation of being the most unpunctual of men, so much so indeed that when in the house of commons he used to be known "as the late marquis of Hartington." He is always late for his appointments, no matter whether it is a dinner party or a cabinet meeting. He is a very silent man, and I doubt if there is anyone in either house of parliament who has chatted less with his fellow legislators than the duke. If he speaks little he laughs less. A smile rarely lights up his rather heavy face. When he laughs it is with a sort of gasp, and he conveys the impression of restraining himself rather suddenly.

Duke Has a Warm Heart.

The duke has a very warm heart under his impassive exterior. I never realized this until a little time after the murder of his brother, Lord Frederick Cavendish, in Phoenix park, Dublin, by the so-called "Invincibles" of the Irish party. He had given no sign of grief at the funeral, or even when Sir William Harcourt communicated the tragedy to him. But two or three months later I was present when he delivered a speech to his constituents at a place called Bacup. "I have lost," he remarked, "a relative loved I believe by all who knew him, loved above all by those near and dear to him." Here emotion compelled him to stop for a few minutes, and he turned aside to conceal from the public the tears that rolled down from either cheek.

The duke is passionately fond of animals, even of birds, and is never seen with a gun on his vast estates, while he is usually accompanied by a collie dog, who attends him even to parliament, and upon whom he bestows a great deal more attention and good will than upon the acquaintances whom he meets. Queen Victoria, who held the duke in very high regard, was wont to specially invite his dog to Balmoral, to Windsor and to Osborne whenever he was summoned thither, either as a cabinet minister or as a mere visitor.

Pope Creates Reference Library.

Among the many titles to gratitude of the scientific world which Leo XIII. has made for himself, is the creation at the vatican library of a marvelous library of reference which by reason of its completeness and size is asserted to be the greatest international consulting library in the world. It is the only thing of the kind in Rome, occupies the southern apartment, whose windows look into the Cortile Della Stamperia and constitutes an invaluable addition to the priceless vatican library and collection of archives. The newly created library is to be known as the Leonine reference library.

Mystery of a Clever Man.

There has just died at Vienna an extraordinary man of the name of Fred Smart, who in his day played a great role in Egyptian life and in Austrian society. During the reign of Khedive Ismail he held a sort of position at Cairo which was that, not only of master of the horse to the Egyptian sovereign, but likewise of cabinet minister without portfolio and without pay. A tall soldierly looking man, with a very courtly high-bred manner he used especially after the fall of Ismail to be met at the houses of the grandest members of the Australian nobility, and was treated by them as one of themselves. Who he really was nobody seemed to know, although everybody professed to have heard a different story on the subject. None of the two stories were alike, although all were of more or less romantic character, none of them, however, reflecting the slightest discredit upon their subject. I believe, however, that his mother was a very beautiful Levantine.

Be this as it may he was adopted by the most exclusive society in Europe, namely that of Vienna, and was thoroughly at home in the palaces of the Schwartzenbergs, the Dietrichsteins and of the Esterhazys. Count Tony Esterhazy indeed was his inseparable friend and chum, the two always hunting in couples. He was a member of several exclusive London clubs, an intimate crony of the late duke of Sutherland, and thoroughly at home in the Faubourg at St. Germain at Paris.

Indeed Smart was the only instance that I can recall of a man being taken up in such a fashion by the Austrian great world and treated on a footing of equality without the slightest regard to his birth or origin. He always had plenty of money, though he made no display of wealth, and was one of the few friends who had the loyalty and sense of gratitude to stick to poor Khedive Ismail after the latter's deposition and disgrace when everybody else, particularly those who were indebted to him for favors and courtesies, treated him with disdain and neglect.

Among the rare analogous instances of people being thus adopted by society, while in ignorance of their origin, may be recalled the case of that Don Alessandro Soler, a foundling, discovered early one morning in the gateway of the Madrid palace of the duke of San Fernando and of his royal wife, a Spanish Infanta, and adopted by them, inheriting their wealth at their death. He formed part and parcel of the most ultra-exclusive coterie at Madrid, being "a tu et a tol," with haughtiest descendants of the ancient nobility of Castile and of Aragon, and a favorite at court, he left at his death all his money to the queen regent.

PERSONALS.

"The dyers' strike has badly affected the silk business," remarked David Valentine, a silk manufacturer of Paterson, N. J., who was passing through the city last night to Chicago. "Desirable silks are now very scarce, and there will be a slight advance in the price of them. Paterson is the silk dying center of the country. The work is very intricate and can only be done by the most skilled dyers. It requires many ingredients for some of the best dyes. You may not know that dynamite is mixed in the dyes, but it is said to give weight and body to the silk. Pennsylvania will eventually be the leading silk manufacturing center of the country, as some of the best mills are now located in the state and others are projected. The state has plenty of girls, and there will be no trouble in instructing them in both the weaving and dyeing of silks."

About 75 members of the Total Abstinence Tourist society of Pittsburgh went to Dubuque, Ia., over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad last night to attend the thirty-second annual convention of the Catholic Abstinence society of the United States, which convenes on Wednesday. The members of the Pittsburgh society will spend two days in Chicago and will go from there by boat to Milwaukee. They will be gone two weeks. The convention promises to be the largest ever held by the society in the United States. The officers of the Pittsburgh society are: The Rev. Father J. G. Deane, president; the Rev. Father M. A. Lambe, spiritual director; B. J. Coll, first vice president, and Peter Madden, secretary.

The Raleigh club of Millvale left yesterday on a special train over the Pittsburgh & Western railroad for Punderson Lake, O., where they will spend two weeks. This is the annual outing of the club, and among the party were John Guines, Nelson Shearer, Edward Baeuerlein, F. Klussman, H. Kures, G. McCutcheon, William Chapman, F. M. Eiber, S. Wallace, John Donald, F. Walthers, F. Qualiman, T. Mamaux, J. L. Gardner, W. J. Ketler, Thomas Hagan, Joseph Henon, James Henon, J. Wherle, H. Dixon, W. Stall, W. Klussman, D. Donald, William Marquis, William Davis, G. Baeuerlein, A. Baeuerlein.

"I received word on Saturday," remarked Col. W. H. Dewey last night at the Seventh Avenue hotel, "that a new stamp mill has been placed at my mine on Thunder Mountain. The mill had to be carried on mules 100 miles up the mountains, but it is now crushing 100 tons of ore daily."

Westbound travel was very light last night over the Pennsylvania railroad, while eastbound passengers were very plentiful. The limited pulled into Union station with only 35 through passengers on board, the lightest load it has hauled on a Sunday during the present year.

Charles W. Bassett, general passenger agent of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, went to Baltimore last night.

Daniel O'Day, Jr., is registered from New York at the Hotel Lincoln.

William Levy of Brownsville, Pa., and C. B. Goorin of Pittsburgh went to Atlantic City last night.

THE DEATH ROLL.

William S. Miller.

William S. Miller, a well-known farmer of Bethel township, died yesterday in the old farmhouse at the age of 75 years. Mr. Miller had lived on his big farm between the Sodom and Library roads for many years, and was always prominent in the affairs of the Bethel church and in local politics. Mr. Miller is survived by his widow, who was Miss Donaldson, and several sons and daughters. He was well known on the South Side, and his wagons full of hay and grain were in former years familiar sights in that section of the city. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m.

John J. Gordon.

John J. Gordon, aged 20 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon of Coraopolis, formerly of Braddock, died Saturday evening at the residence of his parents. He had been in ill health for several years and because of that was forced to give up his studies for the priesthood after he had graduated from St. Mary's college at Emmitsburg, Md., in 1899, and had entered the American college at Rome. The young man is survived by his parents and by two sisters, one of whom is a member of the Order of Sisters of Mercy.

James F. Kennedy.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—James F. Kennedy, aged 55 years, died last night after a lingering illness with blood poisoning. He was born and reared in Pittsburgh, but had lived here the past eight years. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Frank, Harry and Misses Nannie, Grace and Clare. He was a member of New Castle Council No. 131, Jr. O. U. A. M., and of the Knights of the Golden Eagle.

Mother Margaret Uzzell.

DENVER, COL., Aug. 3.—Mrs. Margaret Uzzell, mother of Parson T. A. Uzzel, is dead at the age of 75 years. Mother Uzzel for 18 years had been associated with her sons in conducting the People's tabernacle in this city, of which the Rev. T. A. Uzzel is now pastor.

Mrs. Mary A. Hunter.

Mrs. Mary Agnes Hunter died yesterday in West Deer township, her late home. Mrs. Hunter and her husband, Robert Hunter, formerly lived in Wetzler avenue. She will be buried tomorrow afternoon in the Deer Creek United Presbyterian cemetery.

William E. Burns.

William E. Burns died yesterday at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Sweeney, No. 119 Montgomery avenue, Allegheny. He

Watson place residents are now talking of abolishing policemen and swearing in milkmen as protectors.

Telephone War Begins—What is thought to be the commencement of a bitter war and rate-cutting between the Bell and Pittsburgh & Allegheny telephone companies was started in Homestead yesterday when the Bell Company announced that the rate for local telephone services to physicians in Homestead would only be $1 per month hereafter, instead of $2 50 per month, as had been charged. The cut is said to be the first move made by the Bell Company to fight the P. & A. Company in the Monongahela valley, and other rates will also be cut.

Still Wants to Kill Himself—The Allegheny police were yesterday notified by the authorities at St. John's General hospital that Waisley Dulerenski, the Slav who on Friday tried to kill himself by cutting his throat, is recovering rapidly from his wound but that his mind is badly unbalanced. The patient, the hospital people say, will be able to leave the hospital this week, but they fear he will try to kill himself as soon as he is at liberty. They have to watch him constantly at the hospital to prevent his attempting suicide. Superintendent of Police Henry Muth will have the case watched carefully and as soon as the man is ready to leave the hospital, if his mind is still unbalanced, will have him placed in an insane asylum.

COURT ENDS FIGHT OF LABOR UNIONS

Locked-Out Housesmiths Secure an Injunction in Philadelphia Against Bridgemen.

The Ornamental Architectural Housesmiths, the new international association, which is partly an off-shoot of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and which was launched in Pittsburgh last spring, has won an important vantage in a fight which has been on between the two organizations since May. The fight was most actively on in Philadelphia. Henry W. Legleither, international secretary-treasurer of the housesmiths, who have their headquarters here, yesterday received a message from President Benjamin K. Donnan of the United Housesmiths of Philadelphia, announcing that they had beaten down the boycott of the bridgemen and the Allied Trades Council through a court injunction. All organizations of the council and the bridgemen men had refused to permit the housesmiths on any building and the court now restrains them from interfering with the housesmiths in any way. Secretary Legleitner said of the matter last night:

"It has been a fight of the bridgemen to crush us out of existence and they have planned to carry the fight to Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Boston. In Philadelphia we have as many members as they, there being about 600 in each organization. The bridgemen began taking our places while our scale was unsettled this spring and we used the same tactics when they were out for a new scale later. Then, the Building Trades Council of Philadelphia, to aid the bridgemen, dissolved, letting our people out, and reorganized as the Allied Trades Council, refusing our people representation, on the wrongly-taken technical ground that all affiliated unions must belong to an international association affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. We are an international organizaton, but the bridgemen kept us out, although they no longer have affiliation with the Federation.

"We regard our victory in Philadelphia as of great importance. It may stop trouble in other cities. There is nothing so hurtful to the cause of labor as fighting among organizations. Our people have their own line of work, although the bridgemen can do it and we can do theirs. The organizations should protect instead of attempt to destroy each other."

ELECTED PRESIDENT.

A. B. Reed Honored by the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The conferences of the St. Vincent de Paul society met last night, in the basement of St. Paul's Roman Catholic cathedral, and elected a president for the ensuing 12 months. There was an unusually large representation of the conferences, 14 of the 20 having sent representatives. A. B. Reed, the lawyer, was elected president.

Many of the Catholic churches in the county have conferences of the St. Vincent de Paul society, which is an organization devoted to the care of the Catholic poor, and the conferences in turn form the "Particular Council of Pittsburgh," with a president, vice president and executive board, composed of members of the different conferences.

Dennis Donahue, the vice president, has been acting president of the council since the death of the regularly elected president, several months ago. Mr. Donahue received but one vote last night, and the man who voted for him moved that Mr. Reed's election be made unanimous. The motion carried. The president of the council selects the vice president, secretary and executive board. It is expected that Mr. Reed will accept the presidency.

ATLANTIC CITY.

About 250,000 People Throng the Hotels, Streets and Resorts of the Gay Seaside Town.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—The throng of visitors today was the largest of the season, and the beach, boardwalk and all places of outdoor entertainment were well thronged until the middle of the afternoon, when a rainstorm drove the crowds to shelter. An hour later the sky cleared, and the boardwalk was again a scene of animation.

Reports from the two local railroad companies show that they brought 52,000 passengers here yesterday and today; 27,000 over the Pennsylvania railroad and 25,000 over the Reading. These, with the visitors already here, form a total of about 250,000 in Atlantic City today.

Ralston—James E. Carroll, J. H. Bricker, Pittsburgh; Elmer Kenneweg, Allegheny; J. D. Calhoun, McKeesport; J. C. Kelly, East Liverpool; H. Sheff and wife, Wheeling.

CHAUTAUQUA.

Bishop Gailor Says the Great Vice of Our Republic Is Irreverence.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—This has been the greatest Sunday of the season at Chautauqua, in point of attendance. The sermon this morning was preached by the Rt. Rev. Thomas F. Gailor of the Episcopal church, bishop of Tennessee. His subject was "Civic Duty," and he especially emphasized the virtue of reverence. He said:

"The greatest curse that has overtaken the republics in the world has been the cause of that greed of gain, that recklessness in the acquisition and use of wealth which ends in covetousness, which is idolatry. That covetousness and avarice threatens our institutions, political, social and religious. There is something more precious than a people's commercial prosperity, and that is a people's honor; and honor means reverence, respect for authority; respect for justice; respect for institutions; and this inordinate greed for gain is the very canker that eats out the fiber of a people's honor.

"Even the head of the republic is not protected from calumny. There is no institution for which we Americans hold any reverence nor any national honor for which we feel ourselves responsible.

"What is the remedy for the irreverence and the independence of the times? It is, first of all, to recognize the sanctity of our religious life; it is that we shall not send out men into the world to preach the gospel who spend their time telling the people what they do not make to appear in their own life; it is that we should not make the action of every single day in the week a contradiction of our own average statement of faith and responsibility."

CHARGED WITH LYNCHING.

Virginian Held in Frederick, Md., for Aiding in Craven Hanging.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 3.—Harry Nipple was arrested in Frederick today charged with being implicated in the lynching of Craven at Leesburg, Va., Thursday night.

Nipple had been arrested in Leesburg, it is alleged, for being disorderly, and was confined in the jail at the time the mob which lynched Craven attempted to break in. Nipple, it is charged, assisted the mob and was seen wielding one of the sledge hammers with which the door of Craven's cell was smashed in.

Zeigler Loses His Own Ward.

YORK, PA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—At the Democratic primary election held in this city last night, Hon. Edward D. Zeigler, who wants to be returned to congress, was defeated in his ward by William Reisinger, by a majority of 18.

Ayer's

You have doubtless heard a great deal about Ayer's Sarsaparilla—how it makes the blood pure and rich, tones up the nervous system, clears the skin, reddens the cheeks, and puts flesh on the bones. Remember, "Ayer's" is the kind you want—the kind the doctors prescribe. $1.00. All druggists.

Ayer's Pills are a great aid to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. These pills are liver pills, safe for the parents, and just as safe for the children. Purely vegetable. 25 cents. J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

THREE YOUNG BOYS DROWNED IN SAND HOLE

Clasped in Each Others' Arms They Sank in the Allegheny.

TWO ATTEMPTED RESCUE

Unheeding the Depth, Amiel Kolgenski Plunged In to Aid Unknown Companion, and William Carroll Tried to Save Them Both.

The muddy waters of the Allegheny yesterday afternoon claimed three more victims, boys aged from 12 to 14 years, who went to a watery grave while in bathing at the foot of Thirty-sixth street.

The drowned boys are:

WILLIAM J. CARROLL, the 14-year-old son of Thomas B. Carroll, of No. 306 Thirty-eighth street; body recovered about an hour later by Dr. Llewellyn of No. 277 Thirty-eighth street, who dove for it.

AMIEL KOLOGENSKI, aged 12 years and 7 months, of No. 3201 Dickson street; body recovered about two hours after the drowning by Olsen Gilbert of Thirty-sixth and Charlotte street, while using a grappling hook from a boat.

UNKNOWN BOY, 12 to 14 years old; body not recovered.

None of the boys could swim and their deaths were caused by getting beyond their depths in a sand hole, made a few feet from the shore by the dredge boat Independent, which has been lifting sand and gravel from the bottom.

The boys had undressed and waded in where the water was shallow. There were no other swimmers near them, but on one of the pebble islands, thrown up by the dredge boat, were several.

Tried to Aid Companions.

On the river bank where the three boys left their clothes were a half dozen boys who witnessed the drowning, but none was able to give any assistance.

The three young bathers were seen splashing about in the shallow water, when suddenly one of them went in over his depth. His companions heard his cries and young Kologenski plunged in to aid him, thinking he had the cramps. He, too, was over his depth in an instant. Neither of the youngsters could swim, and young Carroll, who was a fair swimmer, went to their assistance. He had reached them and was trying to keep them above the water, when they wound their arms about him, and all three sank to rise no more.

In the meantime, the other boys heard the cries of the affrighted youngsters on the bank and ran to the scene, but only one got there in time to see the last struggles of the drowning lads and he, being unable to swim, could give no aid.

Recovery of Bodies.

The alarm was spread quickly and the bank was soon lined with anxious people. A search was immediately started to recover the bodies and men in boats with grappling hooks and spiked poles were dragging the bottom. Many volunteered to dive and about an hour later Dr. Llewellyn dove down and recovered the body of young Carroll.

The police were on the scene and the body was removed to No. 5 police station, where the father called a few moments later and identified it as his son. Mr. Carroll was at home, when he was told his son's clothes had been found on the river bank.

The second body was recovered at 4 o'clock, about two hours after the drowning. Like the first, it was found near the spot where it had gone down. There was no one near to identify it, and the police met with the greatest difficulty in discovering any one who knew the boy, or the one still in the water.

Mr. Carroll was unable to enlighten them, as he said his boy had left home alone and likely met the other boys at the river.

The little white corpse was laid out on one of the small pebble islands which the dredge had thrown up within a few feet of the shore, and there it lay for two hours with the face upturned and in view of the hundreds who watched from the shore and the railroad track above. Yet no one was able to give any information concerning it.

The clothes of the boys were carefully examined by many people who have boys of the same age, but no one found any evidence of the boys being theirs.

The body was then taken to No. 5 police station and from there to the morgue, where it was identified at 9 o'clock by Albert Kologenski, his brother.

May Be Two Brothers.

While at the morgue Albert Kologenski was inclined to believe that the third boy drowned was another of his brothers. He said his brother had left home at noon and was not at his home as late as 8 o'clock. The missing brother, he said, was 18 years old, and he thought he might have gone with his younger brother to take a swim.

Inquiry was made at No. 5 police station for a boy named Albert Neubert, whose parents live at No. 4942 Station street. He is 10 years old and had left home in the morning and at 10:30 o'clock had not returned. The drowned boy's clothing, however, was not that of Neubert.

GERMANS IN PARADE.

Pittsburgh and Allegheny Kreigerverein Represented in Festivities at Hamilton, O.

HAMILTON, O., Aug. 3.—The German Army and Navy Association of North America attracted thousands to Hamilton today. The morning concert in the public square was followed by a banner presentation and then the grand parade proceeded to the fair grounds. The Kreigervereh of Pittsburgh and Allegheny was in the parade.

At the grand stand Bundes President Frank Erling of St. Paul, and others, delivered addresses and the fest choir of the United Singers rendered musical numbers. There was a display of fireworks tonight, followed by a drill under Comrade Gustave Burkhardt of Cincinnati.

The convention begins at 9 a. m. tomorrow and continues until Wednesday night, when the Deutscher Kreigerbund of North America closes with a farewell reception at Comrade Louis Fischer's musical exchange, in Cincinnati.

The worst Coughs generally yield to Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, and not a few estimable physicians endorse it as their best prescription.

OLD FRIENDS OF FRANCIS MURPHY GATHER AGAIN

Great Throng Listened to Temperance Apostle in Schenley Park.

WAS HUMOROUS AS EVER

His Countenance Fairly Beamed With Joy as Men Who Took His Pledge Years Ago Told Their Experiences From Platform.

Francis Murphy, the great temperance apostle, addressed an audience of 5,000 people from the bandstand in Schenley park last evening, despite the threatening clouds, and even when the rain commenced to fall the crowds were loth to leave, and as many as could gathered under the shelter of the stand and listened with the most intense interest to his fervent words in favor of the cause to which he was devoting his life, and to the brief remarks and experiences of many of those whom he has been the means of reforming during his many years of work in this city.

Mr. Murphy arrived at the appointed place about 7:30 o'clock, and was warmly and enthusiastically greeted by as many of his co-workers and "his children," as he called those who had signed his pledge years ago. For some time he went about among the crowd, shaking hands and exchanging pleasant words, and he seemed delighted to be once more with his "family." He was in the best of humor and had something bright and cheerful to say to each one. He created quite a laugh, as an old lady with gray hair, pressed forward to shake his hand with a "God bless you," by saying, "Oh, little girl, how are you?"

Met Old Friends.

It was, "Well, Tom, God bless you. Still all right and sticking to the pledge? That's right. Glad to see you, John. Doing all right? Yes, I see you are. How are all the boys at the mill?" and so on until he mounted the platform to open the meeting. Several old friends, including Thomas Smith of Wilkinsburg, a veteran of the war, 74 years old, with one arm, who had been hit by 32 bullets, and who had signed the Murphy pledge 21 years ago; John E. Lewis of the old Sligo mills, who had signed 15 years ago, and several others were on the platform.

The people occupying the benches, men, women and children were from all walks of life, but the workingmen and their families and the middle classes were in the majority, and all were most attentive to the exercises.

The various addresses were occasionally punctuated with the singing of revival and temperance songs in which all heartily joined.

Read Same Old Chapter.

Mr. Murphy, who is now in the 33d year of his work, opened the meeting by reading the 13th chapter from Corinthians and stated that since he first commenced his meetings in this city, 26 years ago, he had never failed to open every meeting by reading this same chapter. As he read, he said that Faith, Hope, Love and Charity, the theme of the chapter, were the keynotes of happiness. Without love in the home, he said, one might just as well try to live in the house without furniture.

"You can never make a Christian or live a temperate life without love," he continued. "This temperance question has to be settled by reason, manhood, common sense and the help of God. We cannot compel temperance; we must reason and persuade men to follow the temperance creed of 'touch not, taste not, handle not.' We temperance people, to succeed, must be tolerant. Some men will take a 'nip' in spite of everything and consequently we must use love and not force. Do not blame the saloonkeeper because he has a saloon. If it were not for the people who buy from him he would go out of business. The remedy for this matter lies with the people."

Amusing Anecdotes.

Mr. Murphy was most earnest in his manner, and his remarks were strong and pointed throughout. Occasionally he was humorous and kept the audience cheerful. For instance, he made the assertion that St. Paul was an Irishman, but that he had been stolen by geneologists. "I can prove it to you in this very chapter," he declared. "St. Paul says here, 'When I was a child, I spake as a child,' and who ever heard of anyone but an Irishman using the word 'spake?'"

At this point it was so dark on the platform that he was compelled to close the Bible, as he could not see to read, and he was continuing his address, when one of the park policemen turned on the electric lights. "Now," said Mr. Murphy, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "I wonder where that fellow has been all this time?"

"I am glad to get back to Pittsburgh," he said, in the course of his remarks, "I have been absent for four years, and in that time I have visited Australia, Honolulu, the gem of the sea, where they have 10,000 Americans and raise $33,000 in one church for missions, and for the past two years I have been located in Los Angeles—in fact, I have been around the world since last I saw you all.

Praised Pittsburgh.

"But I find that there is only one country in the world, and we are in it. Pittsburgh is the most prosperous place I have seen; the people are better off here than any place else, especially the workingmen. And I want to say to the workingmen, avoid the saloons, save your money, and you may all be millionaires, as all of the millionaires in Pittsburgh today have been workingmen."

Addresses were made by W. R. Wilhide, who signed at Murphy's first meeting in the old First Methodist Presbyterian church in Fifth avenue in 1876; John E. Lewis of the Sligo mill, who signed with 100 others at a Murphy meeting in the mill; W. H. Barnhart of Somerset county, Postmaster William Yates of Carnegie, Joseph Hope of Carnegie and many others. Mr. Murphy invited each one to the platform and fairly beamed as they told of how they had taken his pledge and kept it, and he encouraged them with fervent "Amens." The meeting continued until 9:30 o'clock, and before it adjourned many present took the pledge, repeating it after Mr. Murphy.

Mr. Murphy leaves this evening for Cincinnati to visit his son, but he solemnly pledged himself to return on the 3d of August next year.

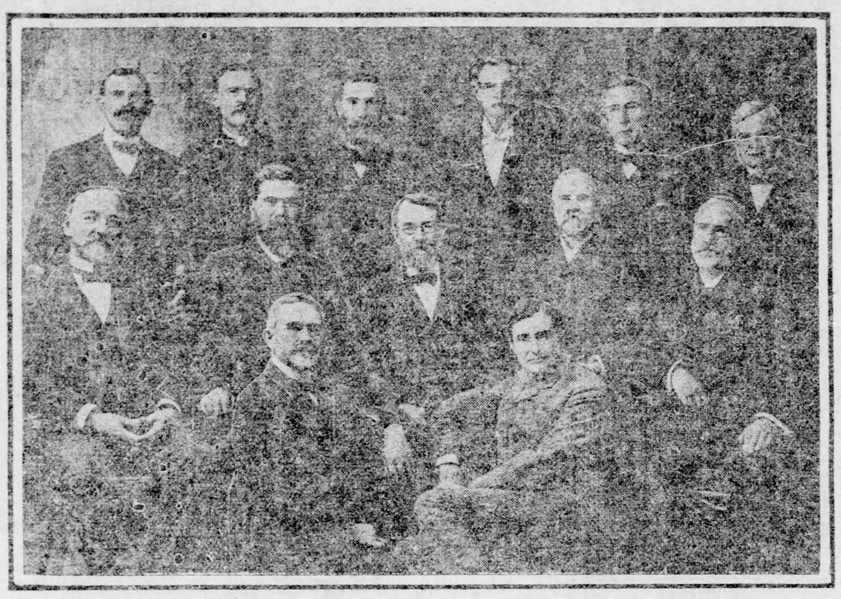
VENICE CHURCH'S HARD LUCK.

Fall of the Campanile Succeeded by Collapse of a Great Window.

VENICE, Aug. 3.—A great window in the basilica of the Dominican church of St. John and St. Paul fell in today, having been shaken by a clap of thunder.

The church itself, which ranks next in importance to St. Mark's, has been declared by experts to be in danger of collapse. It contains fine monuments of the most famous doges who lie buried there.

LEARNED INSTRUCTORS WILL MAKE BIBLE CONFERENCE AT GROVE CITY INTERESTING



The Bible conference at Grove City this year is attracting unusual attention in church circles. The conference opened last Friday morning in the Grove City Presbyterian church. The practical work of the conference, however, begins today. It is the general opinion that the attendance and interest in Bible literature will this year far exceed that of former years. This is due in great part to the learned instructors who have been engaged to present the various phases of the Bible in a scholarly manner.

The Gazette presents a photograph of the instructors and committee of this year's conference, from which it will be seen that Pittsburgh is well represented.

Reading from the left, front row, they are the Rev. Dr. J. M. Mealy and Mr. D. R. Gordon; second row, the Rev. Dr. J. M. Stifler, the Rev. Dr. John Macneill, the Rev. Dr. M. S. Riddle, the Rev. Dr. Browne, the Rev. Dr. Torrey; third row, Mr. McGranahan, the Rev. Dr. S. A. Hunter, Mr. Harbison, the Rev. Dr. McConkey and the Rev. Dr. Ketler.

The conference will last for 10 days. Dr. Riddle will devote his time to systematic instruction on New Testament subjects, particularly the epistles of St. Paul. Mrs. C. H. Pridgeon of this city is to conduct special conferences for women. Dr. Hunter is to conduct the missionary conferences.

GAVE LESSONS IN CHURCH HISTORY

THE REV. M. L. BROWN'S INTERESTING TALK ON METHODISM.

In Receiving Large Class of Probationers He Told Them of the Proud Record of the Church and Its Work Throughout America.

At the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, Kirkpatrick street and Wylie avenue, yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock a large class of probationers was received into full membership of the church and the pastor, the Rev. N. L. Brown, delivered an address that was more in the nature of a history of the noble work of the Methodist Episcopal church and an exhortation to them to be true to their faith, taking for his subject "The Watchtowers of Methodism." His text was Psalms xii-14:

"Walk about Zion and go round about her; tell the towers thereof. Make ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces; that ye may tell it to the generations following. For this God is our God, for ever and ever; He will be our guide even unto death."

He said in part that he was a citizen of no mean city and felt like assuring them that in becoming members of the church they were becoming a part of no mean church. He then called attention to the history of the membership of a mere handful with Barbara Heck as the founder. At the close of the year 1800 it had grown to a membership of 65,000, with 247 preachers, and at the close of 1900, a century later, its membership north numbered about 2,850,000, with 17,500 preachers.

He then referred to the missionary work as another great feature. In 1819 the contributions to the missionary fund amounted to but $825 and in 1900 the amount donated increased to $1,332,000 from the parent board, to which should be added the contributions of the Women's Home Missionary society, $414,000, and the Women's Home mission, $250,000, so that the united church and societies contributed about $2,000,000, or nearly $5,500 per day, laid upon the altar of the church for missionary purposes alone.

"We have missionaries in Mexico, South America, Europe, Africa, India, China, Japan and the islands of the sea. We have a great department of church work. The Church Extension society, founded in 1866, has aided and assisted into existence 12,018 churches, which provide sittings for 3,750,0000 people. Then we have the Freedman's Aid society, founded in 1865, which was intended to care for freedmen only at that time, but which has extended its work so as to include the poor whites also, and in this extension has cared for about 2,000,000 young people. Last year these various schools had 10,146 scholars and since the organization was founded we have sent out about 10,000 teachers and 2,000 preachers."

He then touched upon the educational society and its very brilliant future and urged the young people coming in to be faithful and true to such a church and closed by saying: "While we will not pull down the flag of any other church we will push our own flag to the front line for the world's redemption."

JEWS COMMEMORATE THE GREAT DISASTER

Orthodox Jews, the world over, began yesterday the nine-day season of mourning for the fall of Jerusalem and the consequent loss of the home of their race. The exact date for the beginning of the season of mourning is fixed on the anniversary of the day on which the famous temple was torn down by the Romans. The mourning keeps up for nine days, or until "Tishe Boob," August 12.

The services began yesterday with special services in all the synagogues, and they will be held daily until the season of mourning is over. The season of grief will culminate with elaborate ceremonies on "Tishe Boob" evening, of which the most important will be held by the Tipherth Zion society, an organization at Beth Jacob synagogue in Franklin street, at which they will have as speaker of the evening the noted Rev. Dr. Joseph Seft of New York, the vice president of the American Federation of Zionists. His address will be on the aims, requirements and hopes of the Zionistic cause, all of which is based on the securing of a legally established home in Palestine, for which the Hebrews long.

SUPERB RELIEFS MARK THE WAY OF THE CROSS

Solemn Consecration Service Yesterday at the Passionist Monastery.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT.

Next Sunday Other Special Services of Marked Brilliance and Importance Will Take Place—Fine Appearance of Refurnished Church.

The consecration of the beautiful new stations of the cross at the church of the Passionist monastery on Mount Oliver took place yesterday afternoon. The congregation, always large, was unusually augmented on this occasion. The church is in course of redecoration and renovation, but, incomplete as it was, it presented a handsome appearance. The electric lights were turned on for the first time, and as hundreds of them were used, the effect was magnificent.

The blessing of the stations began at 4 p. m. Father Dennis Calligee, the master of novices at the monastery, was the celebrant at the services; Father Christopher was the deacon and Father Anthony the sub-deacon.

It was a lengthy ceremony, the making of the way of the cross by the priests and congregation lasting for nearly two hours. There are 14 stations, and to bless the stations themselves three processional rounds of the church were made; to bless the crosses above the stations another round was made, and finally a fifth and longer round was made in the making of the way of the cross.

What the Stations Represent.

The stations, beautifully moulded in relief, represent 14 scenes incident to the crucifixion, beginning with the Saviour's appearance before Pontius Pilate and closing with the last great scene on Calvary. That is what a visit to the consecutive stations, saying appropriate pray before each station, is called the "way of the cross." It is a solemn service to which, if performed in a state of grace, an indulgence from the temporal ecclesiastical punishment for sins is attached.

Between each station a stanza from the famous hymn, "Stabat Mater," is always sung, but yesterday the singing was amplified by the rendition of a verse from the psalm "Populo meus" at intervals. The singing was by a male choir, trained and led by Father Benedict, the musical genius of the monastery. Besides the hymn and psalm already mentioned the choir also sang the "Veni Creator" before the benediction. The services closed with the benediction of the holy eucharist. Many remained for the blessing with the relic of St. Paul of the cross.

Brilliant Services Next Sunday.

While yesterday's ceremonies were of great solemnity, the services to be held next Sunday will be of particular brilliance and importance. Two bishops will be present and many of the secular clergy, fathers of the Passionist order and students of the Passionist seminary will participate. The first ceremony of the day will be the consecration of the four new side altars, now almost completed.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Richard Phelan would have been glad to go through the long ceremony, but on account of his recent attack of rheumatism the fathers at the monastery would not expose the bishop to the ordeal, and so Bishop Shanahan of Harrisburg will be the celebrant, although Bishop Phelan will participate.

The hour has not yet been set for the consecration of the altars, but it will be early enough to be finished in time for the beginning of the high mass at 10 a. m. It is probable that Father John Baudinelli, the consultor to and representative of the general of the order on this occasion, will sing the high mass. He is expected to arrive from Rome in time for the services next Sunday.

Next Sunday afternoon the ceremony of placing or "translating" the relics of St. Victoria and St. Benedict to the crypts under two of the side altars will take place. On this occasion Bishop Shanahan will preach the sermon.

TO BUILD A NEW CHURCH.

Wylie Avenue A. M. E. Congregation in Making an Appeal to the Public Corrects a False Idea.

The Rev. Charles Avery, who died about 40 years ago, left an estate, the rents and interests of which was to be used for the spread and support of the Gospel among the colored people of the African Methodist Episcopal denomination of Pittsburgh and Allegheny; and under the will he made the trustees of the Wylie Avenue church, trustees for the estate. The net yearly earnings are about $1,200. These are divided among five churches—Brown chapel, Allegheny; Chartiers Street church, Allegheny; St. Paul church, South Side; Euclid Avenue, East End, and the Wylie Avenue church.

By reason of the trustees of the Wylie Avenue church being trustees of the Avery fund, the impression prevails that this congregation receives the full benefit of the Avery fund, instead of only one-fifth.

This is the first time in over half a century that this congregation has appealed to the public for this purpose. The present church building was the first one erected for a colored congregation west of the Allegheny mountains and it has always exerted a great moral and spiritual influence.

WHAT GOD'S GRACE DOES.

Paulist Missionary Discoursed on This Topic at the Cathedral Yesterday.

The Rev. Father Walter Elliott, a celebrated Paulist father and well-known missionary, preached the sermon at the high mass in St. Paul's cathedral yesterday. His discourse was based on these words of St. Paul, "By the grace of God I am what I am."

It was through the grace of God that Christians could become what they ought to be, Father Elliott said. God's grace was vouchsafed to every one, but not every one made use of it. St. Paul became the greatest apostle through the grace of God, but he utilized and profited by every particle of that grace. If a Christian today were not what he ought to be, it was because he did not profit by the immeasurable grace of God.

The congregation of the Wylie Avenue African Methodist Episcopal church is desirous of erecting a new house of worship to replace the present unsightly structure which does not properly accommodate the increasing congregation. The congregation is not a wealthy one and in order to build will have to go before the public and ask for financial aid. Before doing this it is desired to remove a false and unfavorable impression of long standing in this community.

Central Park

Sale Continued This Week.

Saturday's sale of Central Park lots was the biggest real estate event in McKeesport's history—Buyers from all over Western Pennsylvania—People who came to buy one lot took two and three when they found what a gold mine they had gotten into—But eager as they were they didn't buy all the good lots—not nearly—

Central Park is a big place—and many of the very choicest lots are here for this week's buyers—

Don't Neglect the Opportunity

Central Park is part of the old Evans Estate—Been in the Evans family since 1796—City has grown up all around it and it is now the very choicest residence spot in McKeesport—It's right in the center of the city—only 5 minutes' walk from the great mills and factories—Has 2 street car lines—The new $50,000 Carnegie Library is located on the plan—So is the finest schoolhouse and the finest church in the city—and a dozen or more of the city's choicest homes—

Yet with all these advantages prices are about the same as you are asked for lots in ordinary boom plans—

It's an opportunity for any man of moderate means to get a start in life—

Doesn't Require Much Money

Pay 10 per cent down—Balance as you please—No taxes until 1904—and only 4 per cent interest on deferred payments—

Railroad Fare Free

Come on any train—Railroad fare will be refunded to all lot buyers—If you can't come at once write for maps and illustrated folders—You'll want to get your lot reserved at once. The choice ones are being picked up very rapidly—

There's big money in McKeesport Real Estate just now—and Central Park is the very cream of it—Write for folders TODAY.

PERSONAL.

PERSONAL—
"And now you are in my parlor,
Said the spider to the fly."
The old verses read.
"Let me come in to die.
I have SATISFACTION COFFEE here,
And now I really think,
It is the only coffee
That is fit for us to drink.
It makes you feel so sociable,
And want to do what is right,
So I really must apologize
For causing you to die."
Even the spider and the fly can live in harmony when they drink Satisfaction Coffee. All grocers sell it.

PERSONAL—Theodore Low de Vinne, the highest authority in this country on composition and typography, condemns as barbarous abbreviations, Walter Pearce, an English authority, regrets the injudicious use of different styles and the abuse of italic and shaded letters. LEGAL NOTICES.

Allegheny County, ss:
To Sarah Happer, Margaret Storer, Jane Margaretta Johnson, Sarah Ellen Johnson, Mary Adaline Johnson and Robert Curry Johnson, children of Mary Jane Johnson, deceased, and any other children of Mary Jane Johnson, deceased; Joseph Curry Foster and J. F. Curry and William E. Curry, executors of Joseph Curry, deceased; or their heirs, executors, administrators or legatees.

In accordance with the decree of court hereinafter set forth, you and each of you are hereby notified that on the 16th day of July, 1902, David Flowers, Harry Thomas, James C. Boyer, Pennsylvania Mining Company and H. H. Niemann, guardian of Mary Robinson, presented to our said court of common pleas No. 2, of Allegheny county, Pa., their petition stating that Joseph Curry, by deed recorded in the recorder's office of Allegheny county, in Deed Book, volume 151, page 196, conveyed to his son, William E. Curry, a certain tract of land situate in Snowden township, Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows:

"That tract of land or plantation where William E. Curry, of the second part, now lives on, called the William Mates place or farm, in Snowden township, Allegheny county and state of Pennsylvania, as deeded to the first party by J. F. Curry some years ago, dated the 6th day of February, A. D. 1896, and recorded in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, in Book 3-A, in volume 50, page 214, on the 6th of March, 1896, and beginning at a corner of Jane Curry's and Philip Linhart's line, thence by said Jane Curry's line southwardly to corner of William Ewing's line; thence eastwardly to J. M. Curry's line, thence southerly to Pittsburgh and Brownsville road, thence westerly to Philip Linhart's line, thence by Philip Linhart's line to the place of beginning. Containing one hundred (100) acres, more or less, for the consideration of three thousand ($3,000.00) dollars, eleven hundred and fifty ($1,150.00) dollars whereof was by said deed made a charge upon the said real estate to be paid out by said William E. Curry as follows:

"To Sarah Happer, wife of Samuel Happer, two hundred ($200.00) dollars or to the heirs of her body surviving at the time of the decease of the aforesaid Joseph and Jane Curry; to Margaret Storer, wife of Richard Storer, or the heirs of her body, twenty-five ($25.00) dollars two years after the decease of said Joseph and Jane Curry; to Isabella Hutchison, wife of Robert C. Hutchison, or the heirs of her body, two hundred ($200.00) dollars five (5) years after the decease of said Joseph and Jane Curry; to our grandchildren, the children of our late daughter Mary Jane Johnson, deceased, one hundred ($100.00) dollars without interest each as they individually arrive at the age of twenty (20) years; also to our grandson, Joseph Curry Foster, son of our late daughter, Susan Foster, deceased, three hundred ($300.00) dollars without interest, when he arrives at the age of twenty-one years. If the said Joseph Curry Foster should die without lawful issue of these three hundred ($300.00) dollars to be paid to the children of our late daughter, Mary Jane Johnson, to be divided equally without interest.

"The said William, of the second part, promises to pay the said Joseph and Jane Curry, parties of the first, twenty-five ($25.00) dollars every year during their natural lifetime, for which the above-named property is made subject and bound.

"That said petitioners are the present owners of said real estate. That petitioners are informed and believe that the sum of said charges or encumbrances upon said real estate have been paid more than twenty-one (21) years prior to said 16th day of July, 1902, that more than twenty-one (21) years have elapsed since the principal of said charges or encumbrances have become due and payable and that no payments have been made within said period of twenty-one (21) years on account of any of said charges or encumbrances by any of the owners of said land or any of their predecessors in title thereto and that no sufficient release, acquittance or acknowledgement of payment from any of said parties defendant, except Isabella Hutchison and Jane Curry, is of record in said county of Allegheny.

"That the above named defendants are all of the parties interested in said charges or encumbrances so far as the said petitioners are informed, and that the places of residence of said defendants are unknown to petitioners, and that said petitioners therefore prayed the said court to make an order directing the sheriff of Allegheny county to give notice to the said defendants in accordance with the act of assembly in such case made and provided, to appear in court on a day to be designated by said court to answer said petition and show cause, if any they have, why the said court should not make a decree that the said land in the said petition described be released and discharged from all of the said charges and encumbrances and from the payment of the same."

Whereupon the said court, on the 16th day of July, 1902, made the following order of record:

And now, to-wit, 16th July, 1902, the foregoing petition presented in open court and upon due consideration it is ordered, adjudged and decreed, that the sheriff of Allegheny county give notice to all of said known parties in the county, whose residences are known, by a copy served personally or left at their place of abode, and to all persons out of the county, if any, and to all unknown parties by public notice published in The Pittsburgh Gazette and Pittsburgh Press, newspapers published within the county of Allegheny, for four successive weeks, which notice shall briefly state the facts set forth in the petition, and require the parties to appear in this court on Saturday, the 16th day of August, 1902, to answer said petition and show cause, if they have, why the said court should not make a decree directing that the land in the said petition described be released and discharged from all of the said charges and encumbrances in said petition mentioned and from the payment of the same. Per curiam.

You, and each of you, are, therefore, notified to be and appear in our said court of common pleas No. 2 of Allegheny county, Pa., on Saturday, August 16th, 1902, to answer the said petition and show cause, if any you have, why the court should not make a decree directing that the land in the said petition described be released and discharged from all of the said charges and encumbrances in said petition mentioned and from the payment of the same.
WILLIAM C. M'KINLEY,
Sheriff.

J. S. & E. G. Ferguson, Solicitors.

LEGAL NOTICES.

A. C. STEIN, Attorney-at-Law. Fifth avenue and Ross street, Pittsburgh, Pa. In the court of common pleas No. 2 of Allegheny county, No. 191, term, 1902. In re petition of Anna McClure Shirley for satisfaction of mortgage, recorded in Mortgage Book, 35, page, 214. Take notice that the petition of Anna McClure Shirley respectfully represents: That on the 7th day of March, 1859, John McKenna and his wife, Rebecca, were seized in fee by deed of Samuel Greer, executor of the estate of Mary Reed, deceased, recorded in recorder's office of Allegheny county, in Deed Book, 837, page 79, all that certain lot or piece of ground situate in the city of Pittsburgh, county of Allegheny and state of Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit:

Being part of lot No. 22, in Whitesides plan, having a front of twenty-five (25) feet on Peach alley, and extending toward Mulberry street seventy-five (75) feet, being the southwest corner of Peach alley and Bedford avenue.

That on said date the said John McKenna and Rebecca, his wife, executed and delivered a purchase money mortgage on said Samuel Greer, executor of the estate of Mary Reed, deceased, on the said lot of ground, which mortgage was conditioned for the payment of the sum of four hundred forty-nine dollars and seventy-four cents ($449.74), in the manner following, to wit: $125 on March 7, 1865; $100 on March 7, 1862; $100 on March 7, 1865, and the balance of $124.74 on March 7, 1864, with lawful interest thereon, which said mortgage is on record in the recorder's office of Allegheny county, in Mortgage Book 35, page 214. That by sundry conveyances and assurances in the law, the title of said lot of ground became vested in your petitioner on the 11th day of January, 1893, by deed recorded in recorder's office of Allegheny county, in Deed Book, volume 1,058, page 405, to your petitioner since that time has been and now is, the owner of said described lot of ground.

That the debt secured by said mortgage has been of more than 21 years before the date of this petition, and no payment of principal or interest has been made on account of said mortgage within 21 years prior to the date of this petition, by the present owner of said lot (your petitioner), or as far as can be ascertained, by her predecessors in title, nor has the same, so far as is known, been recognized in any manner whatever within said period of 21 years.

That said mortgage has not been assigned, released or otherwise discharged of record. Your petitioner knows of no person or persons now or heretofore interested in said mortgage, as the said Samuel Greer, executor, etc., mortgagee, has long been dead.

That the heirs of the said Mary Reed and the beneficiaries under her will were her children, Rachael Livingstone, Mary Ferguson, William F. Reed, Rebecca Reed and her grandchildren, Mary Jane Reed and John Reed, children of a deceased son, Thomas Reed. That the said Rebecca Reed, one of the beneficiaries afterward intermarried with John McKenna, and are the mortgagors named in said unsatisfied mortgage recorded in Mortgage Book 35, page 214. Your petitioner is the daughter of the said John and Rebecca McKenna. Your petitioner does not know the residences, if they are still living, of any of said heirs of Mary Reed. That there has been no assignment of record of said mortgage, or of the interest thereon. Wherefore, your petitioner prays your honorable court to make a decree, after proper notice of these proceedings shall have been given, as required by law, directing that the lot of ground described in said mortgage herein recited, shall be released and fully discharged from the lien of said mortgage and all interest thereon, according to the provision of an act of assembly, approved the 8th day of May, 1895, and she will ever pray, etc.

Now, he it known that I, William C. McKinley, sheriff of Allegheny county, Pa., do hereby give public notice requiring all persons interested in said mortgage to appear in said court of common pleas No. 2, on Monday, 1902, at 10 o'clock a. m., to answer said petition and to show cause why the proper decree should not be granted and the said mortgage satisfied of record.
WILLIAM C. M'KINLEY, Sheriff.

League Games Today.

Pittsburgh at New York.
Chicago at Philadelphia.
Cincinnati at Brooklyn.
St. Louis at Boston.

The Pittsburgh champions, headed by Secretary Harry Pulliam and Manager Fred Clarke, returned to New York late last night a sorry bunch of baseball players. They went up to Albany Saturday night for Sunday, where it was their intention to hold a little matinee with the Albany team.

Rain fell at Albany until noon, and as there was no possible chance of playing the game all bets had to be declared off.

The Albany grounds are decidedly new and today's game was to have been the opening of the new park.

The New York State leaguers in the capital city have a strong team this season and every member was anxious to get a try at the champions of the big league.

The patrons of the great national game in Albany, too, were anxious to witness the contest and no less than 5,000 persons were disappointed at the game being called off.

The champions have a very busy week ahead of them. They play the New York team at the Polo grounds Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and then jump over to Philadelphia for a series of four games.

Baseball writers throughout the country have now conceded that the Pirates have won another pennant and have begun to sound warning notes to other teams in the National organization to strengthen their clubs for next season or the trick will be repeated by the Smoky City team.

Tim Murnane of the Boston Globe has the following to say in his weekly baseball review: "I think the National league magnates have taken a wise course in going after some of their old players. They are pretty well convinced by this time that Pittsburgh had a soft snap, and would continue to have it if something was not done to strengthen the other teams for another season."

J. Ed Grillo of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune puts in the following right-arm swing: "Pittsburgh was conceded the pennant months ago, and it has so long a lead now that it is impossible to overhaul it. Consequently there is little or no interest in the race."

CHAMPIONS WON FIRST.

They Defeated McGraw's Team in the Initial Game of the Series by Excellent Playing.

The champions had but little difficulty in taking the first game of the series from McGraw's reorganized New York team at the Polo grounds, on Saturday afternoon. Four lightning double plays helped the Pirates to win the contest.

Doheny pitched a good article of ball and had but one bad inning, the eighth, when he eased up a little, grew wild, hit a couple of men, and with Wagner's error, the New Yorks scored their only two runs of the game. Clarke had his batting clothes on and succeeded in making four hits out of five times at bat. The score:

SELEE'S TEAM WON.

Chicago Defeated Newark in a Close and Interesting Exhibition Game.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 3.—The Chicago National league team defeated Newark in a well played exhibition game this afternoon. Foor, Newark's new pitcher, did well after the third inning, holding the big leaguers down without a run.

A sensational jumping catch by Jones in the first inning was a feature. Attendance, 3,200. Score by innings:

Newark	0	0	1
Chicago	0	3	1

Batteries—Fox and Jape; Rhodes and Kling.

AMONG THE AMATEURS.

Lafayette A. C. of Allegheny is without a game for Saturday. Address J. C. Feldheimer, 1060 Perry street, Allegheny.

The Hot Air A. C. defeated the strong Roddy Mason team at High Bridge yesterday by a score of 14 to 9. The Hot Air players think Nickle Mason one of the worst kickers ever known.

Swissvale A. C. would like to hear from Homestead, Monessen, Charleroi, Millvale, Verners, Rochester or Aliquona for next Saturday. S. A. C. plays five evening games within next two weeks, and play at Johnstown on the 15th and 18th. Address Denny O'Harn, Box 1257, Swissvale.

The Brown A. C. still has a few open dates in August and September, which they would like to fill with such teams as Dravosburg, Bridgeville, Idlewood, Beechdale, Sturgeon, Claysville, Taylorstown, Sewickley, Verona, Cut Boys or other out-of-town teams having grounds. Address Chas. Kratz, East Pittsburg.

The Verners will play an all-star aggregation Tuesday evening. Line-up: Jack Rodgers, c.; Barr, Jamison, Orbit and McClaren, infielders; Mignael, McLenna, Moren and Wentz, outfielders. The pitching will be done by Stotler, the crack pitcher of the Manor team, who, it is claimed by, has no superior in Western Pennsylvania.

STORM CAUSED SLOW BIKE TIME

RIDERS AT VAILSBURG TRACK ARE UNABLE TO SMASH RECORDS.

There Were Twenty-Five Starters in the Twenty-Mile Amateur Event, Which Was Won by Schlee in Last Lap by Two Lengths.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 3.—A heavy storm interfered greatly with the Vailsburg bicycle races today, many of the entered riders failing to appear. The best race of the day was the 20-mile struggle for amateurs.

Hurley did not start, but about 25 others did, and the race was a good one throughout. J. Rockowitz led most of the way and captured the time prize.

Schlee held a prominent place throughout, and, sprinting in the last lap, won by two lengths. The scurry dash brought out a good field. McFarland laid back to the last lap, where he went to the front and won in a fine sprint by half a length. Summaries:

Half mile handicap, amateur—Won by Michael Coffey, Newark, 30 yards; W. L. Losee, Brooklyn, scratch, second; J. Zanes, Newark, 25 yards, third. Time, :59 4-5.

Scurry, dash, 1 mile, open, professional—Won by Floyd McFarland, San Jose, Cal.; W. A. Rutz, New Haven, Conn., second; Floyd Krebs, Newark, third; H. B. Freeman, Portland, Ore., fourth. Time, 1:57 1-5.

Twenty mile open, amateur—Won by Charles Schlee, Newark; M. T. Dove, New York, second; James Zanes, Newark, third; "Teddy" Billington, Newark, fourth; Oscar Goerke, Brooklyn, fifth. Time, 45:10 2-5.

COLOSSEUM RACES.

Twenty-Five Mile Motor-Paced Race Between Nelson and Monroe Will Be the Feature.

The program for the meet at the Colosseum track in Allegheny tonight includes a 25-mile motor-paced race between Joe Nelson of Chicago and Benny Monroe of Memphis, and according to the records of the two riders, this will be a close contest.

Both of the men during the past week defeated Butler and finished the distance in very nearly the same time. Both are in splendid condition for the race tonight. Monroe having entirely recovered from the effects of his recent fall on one of the eastern tracks.

Nelson is one of the cleanest riders that has been seen on the local track this season. He rides without any apparent effort and he follows the big machines without a break.

On Saturday during the whole 25 miles he kept his position behind the tandem without wavering. Taking into consideration that he is only 18 years old his performance here justifies the prediction that he is the coming champion.

The other 10-mile motor-paced amateur race are Percy Brown, C. C. Hartman, Ralph Jackson, Harry Brown, S. A. Shirley and Charles Reel. The program also includes a five-mile race on single motors between Bennett and Shultz.

LORD DERBY WITHDRAWN FROM GRAND CIRCUIT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—E. E. Smathers, owner of Lord Derby, 2:06½, announced today that he had decided to withdraw the winner of the $40,000 match race at Hartford, from his grand circuit engagement at Buffalo this week, and drive the horse himself in a race to wagon, with a blue ribbon prize, at Empire City park next Saturday.

The New York Driving club, of which Mr. Smathers is a member, will hold its fifth meeting at the Yonkers track at that time, and in order to make the occasion a memorable one, he has agreed to drive Lord Derby against C. K. G. Billings' Louise Jefferson, the mare that pulled a wagon at Cleveland in 2:03¾ a fortnight ago, and against Fred Gerken's trotter, The Monk, 2:01¼, and any other horses of free-for-all class that want to come into the contest.

Mr. Billings has sent to drive either Louise Jefferson or the champion wagon trotter, Sadie, 2:07. Mr. Gerken could not be seen today, but as he is one of the officers of the driving club, and an enthusiastic amateur reinsman, it is not doubted that he will make a great race possible by starting The Monk.

REDS LOST AGAIN.

For Second Time This Season Hoboken Team Defeated National Leaguers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—For the second time this season the Cincinnati National league players were defeated by the Hoboken nine in an exhibition game on St. George's cricket grounds, Hoboken, N. J., today.

Ewing pitched the first two innings for Cincinnati, but the local men touched him up for three runs and then Thielman was put in to pitch and he held the Jerseymen for a single hit until the eighth inning, when Hoboken got three more tallies.

Deegan, the local pitcher, was very effective for the first five innings, but in the sixth and ninth the visitors scored five runs. Attendance 4,000. The score by innings:

Cincinnati	0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 3—5	9	2

Batteries—Deegan and Lamar; Ewing, Thielman and Maloney. Umpire—J. Merrity.

M'ALEESE'S HIT WON.

It Came in Tenth With Two on Bases and Defeated New Castle.

SHARON, PA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—Sharon and New Castle played an exciting ten-inning game today which was won by the former on McAleese's hit with two men on bases. Patterson pitched his first game for Sharon and kept the hits well scattered, besides fielding his position finely.

The features of the game were a one hand catch of Evans of a line drive, Williams' fielding at short and the batting of McAleese and Donovan. Score:

Batteries—Lanahan, Crum and Donovan; Patterson and McAleese.

ELEPHANTS IN WRECK.

Circus Car Dumped Over and Big Brutes Almost Panic Stricken. Lion Suffocated in Cage.

BUTLER, PA., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—At 4 o'clock this morning the second section of the Forepaugh-Sells show train, which left over the Baltimore & Ohio for Steubenville, was wrecked before it got out of the yard limits, by the capsizing of the elephant car on a sharp curve in a cut. Seven elephants and eight men were in the car, but none were hurt. The wreck train did not get here until 10 o'clock and it was four hours later before the car was back on the track.

The big animals made a terrible fuss until they were released. They were then taken to the creek near by, where they played in the water for a couple of hours, to the great enjoyment of a couple of thousand people who had gathered to watch them.

Before the train pulled out this afternoon the largest and most valuable lion in the menagerie died from suffocation. The keepers neglected to properly ventilate the cage.

A Pleasant Time to Travel.

The Pennsylvania railroad will sell each Tuesday, Friday and Saturday during August, 15-day excursion tickets, Pittsburgh to all Chautauqua lake points and return, at rate of $6.

Each Tuesday during August and September, 15-day excursion tickets, Pittsburgh to Niagara Falls and return, $7.45; and to Toronto and return, $8.45.

Trains leave Union station at 9 a. m. and 10:45 p. m., eastern standard time. Pullman service on all through trains. Chautauqua lake sleeping car on 10:45 p. m. train.

RACING RECORDS OF TURF KINGS

MARKS AND WINNINGS OF LORD DERBY AND BORALMA TO DATE.

Lawson's Favorite Trotter Has Defeated Smithers' Horse on Several Occasions Previous to Last Saturday—Both Racers Have Done Great Work.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The following are the records of Lord Derby and Baralmo, which horses raced at Hartford on Saturday for a large stake:

Lord Derby (2:06¼) is a bay gelding by Mambrino King. He was foaled in 1895 at the Hamlins' famous Village farm stud at Buffalo, and began his racing career in 1900.

He was developed and driven by Ed Geers until last winter, when he was sold at the Garden to Mr. Smathers.

Lord Derby won many hard-fought races, but nearly all of his victories have been decisive. From his first race he has steadily improved, until today he is one of the fastest trotters on the turf.

He has a wonderful burst of speed that is heartbreaking to his competitors and which often causes them to leave their stride.

Lord Derby started 10 times in 1900 and won four races. He was first in his three opening races and then finished fourth in a six-heat race at Fort Wayne, Ind., which was captured by Charley Herr. In his next start Lord Derby was beaten by Georgena in three straight heats at Glens Falls. At Hartford, where his next race took place, he was again beaten by Georgena and Alameda, failing to win a heat.

The following week Lord Derby won a grand race from Grattan Boy, Lord Vincent, Gayton and Charley Herr at the Empire track, when he stepped his winning heats in 2:07, 2:07 and 2:08, much faster time than that in which he was defeated. Charley Herr then captured a five-heat race from Lord Derby, the latter winning the first and third heats.

Lord Derby and Boralma met at Readville in the 2:12 class trot for a purse of $10,000 and Boralma won in three straight heats, with Lord Derby second each time. Although there were four other trotters Lord Derby and Boralma had the race between them.

About a month later Boralma won the Transylvania stake at Lexington, Ky., in which Lord Derby was a starter. York Boy won the opening heat, while Boralma captured the three succeeding heats, Lord Derby was third in the summary.

Last year was Lord Derby's best year. He defeated Borlma and The Monk in the free-for-all trot at Hartford, Conn., in five heats. In the first heat Lord Derby's time was 2:06½, which gave him a new record. Boralma won the second and fourth heats, but the deciding heat went to Lord Derby. It was in the second heat of this race that Boralma also got his mark of 2:07.

Boralma, Mr. Lawson's favorite trotter, is a chestnut gelding, foaled in 1896, and bred by Scott Newman, of Louisville, Ky. His sire was Boreal, 2:13¾, a son of Bow Bells, 2:19½, who is a full brother to Chimes, the sire of The Abbott. Boralma's dam was Eralma, by Earl, 2:25¾, a son of Princess, by Woodford Mambrino, 2:21½.

Mr. Lawson bought him in 1899 on the eve of the Kentucky Futurity. He paid $17,000 for him and won $2,000 on his victory in the Futurity apart from his share of the stake, which was $7,000.

Boralma won the Futurity in sensational time, one heat having been trotted in 2:11½, and the last half was trotted in 1:03¾.

As a three and four-year-old Boralma raced unbeaten. In August of 1900, when a very lame horse, he won the $10,000 Massachusetts stake at Boston, wherein he defeated Lord Derby and the Brooklyn mare, Georgena, 2:07½. So lame was he that Mr Lawson had the judges announce that he was barred in the pools, thinking that he had no chance of victory.

Besides winning the Futurity as a three-year-old, Boralma captured several important stake events, defeating Lord Derby for the second time, and a lot of other good trotters. He also won a number of races on the grand circuit.

Last year he encountered Lord Derby twice, and the speedy son of Mambrino King captured both races in impressive fashion.

Weekly Review of Market Quotations

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Timothy Hay Slightly Lower, Oats Declining—Spring Chickens Plentiful.

Receipts of timothy hay improved the last few days, and prices are easier than at the opening of last week. Offerings on Saturday were freer, and quotations lower than those ruling earlier in the week. Yellow shelled corn is lower, having declined several cents a bushel, while ear corn is easier and has remained steady. Oats are lower and looking toward further declines. The feeling is that figures will be very much reduced inside of the next week or two. Spring chickens have been so good as to assure plentiful supplies.

Wheat is lower than it was a week ago, and flour is easier, the range of selling now being from $4.10 to $4.20 for spring patent, which is about 5c below quotations at the opening of last week. Sugar and coffee are maintained at old prices. Navy beans have been steadily going forward, and are considerably higher than on last Monday. Cereals are so far unchanged.

The change in canned goods is in tomatoes, standards selling below the dollar line in some instances, with Texas selling at $1 for fancies. A slight reduction in boxed apricots and 4-crown Muscatel raisins are the only features in dried fruits.

Apples are lower than they were last Monday, although fancy Maiden Blush hold firm at $4.50@5.00 per barrel. Other fancy varieties are offering at a dollar less than these figures. Peaches are also still with prices slightly reduced. A few sweets have been in the market, but as yet they are coming only in occasional lots. Cucumbers have declined. Tomatoes are offering at lower prices, and on Saturday sold even below quotations, on account of a heavy supply which hardly represents the condition of the market, however, and the figure of $1 per bushel still ruled. Green corn is lower. Watermelons and cantaloupes

ANOTHER RECORD BROKEN

Pittsburgh Bank Exchanges for the Week Gained More Than $6,411,000 Over Last Year.

Pittsburgh bank exchanges for the week ending yesterday were larger by $6,411,000 than any similar week in the history of the clearing house association, the record being held by the same week last year. Compared with the previous week there was a decrease of about $4,750,000. The total for the year to date shows a loss of about $6,100,000 compared with the same period last year. The exchanges for yesterday were $1,806,000 larger than the same day a year ago, but about $971,000 smaller than for the preceding Saturday. The local money market remains quite firm with the rate for call and time loans at 6@6 per cent.

The detailed clearing house reports are as follows:

	Exchanges.	Balances.

LAST WEEK'S SALES WERE MUCH SMALLER

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange during the week ending yesterday was very dull most of the time and generally quite irregular in tone. The business transacted was considerably smaller than for the preceding week and still less as compared with the same week a year ago. The close was a shade more active and somewhat firmer. The total public sales were only 19,301 shares of stock and $21,000 bonds. These figures compare with 28,301 shares of stock, $80,000 bonds and 2-3 rights for the preceding week, and with 34,928 shares of stock and $43,000 bonds the same week last year.

The following statement is a complete summary of the publicly recorded transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange during the week beginning Monday, July 28, and ending with Saturday, August 2, 1902. It shows the total sales, opening, highest, lowest and closing prices, and the changes in the selling prices as compared with those of the preceding week and the nearest ones to that time:

BRUSSELS LACE ALL BUT RUINS DAINTY PURSES

Visits to Factory and Shops Disclose to Teachers Endless Array of Bargains.

ROYALTY AT CATHEDRAL

By L. W. STRAYER.
(Special Correspondence of The Gazette.)

Brussels, July 21.—Once more fortune has been especially kind to the teachers who are on the European tour of The Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph. When we were scheduled to be in Brussels July 21 we had no idea that that was Independence day for the Belgians, and that we were to witness the celebration that means as much to these people as the Fourth of July to us.

When we arrived here last evening we were informed that Monday was a great fete day, but we were tired from a day of sightseeing and travel and did not give much attention to the announcement. But today when we entered the cathedral and found it thronged with people, heard the music of the great orchestra and choir of boys and saw the congregation of dignitaries, including the ministers from all the nations, with King Leopold II. himself standing beneath the royal canopy, then we realized that we were indeed fortunate to be here on this day. July 21, 1831, Belgium became a free nation and Leopold I. ascended the throne. This, then, is the 71st anniversary of the independence of the nation. When we entered the vast auditorium of the cathedral the music of the choir was most impressive. The seats were occupied by army and civil officials, the diplomatic corps and others high in authority, while the wide aisles at the side were thronged with a crowd more curious than worshipful.

Points of Vantage Secured.

Our guide informed us that it was useless to attempt to see the king, but he little knew the resources of the American school teacher. We worked our way gradually to the front of the crowd and got as near the royal canopy as possible, within about 150 or 200 feet. Then some one secured a chair and soon another and another chair were in commission and from these points of vantage all were enabled to get a good view of King Leopold of Belgium. This is the second view of royalty that the party has had, and it is only the second country in Europe which we have visited.

There is a strong probability that if we did not leave here in the morning every lady in the party would cross the frontier of Belgium "dead broke." The shops of London offered many tempting bargains, some of which the ladies snapped up, but there were wise noddings of the head and remarks that the tour was just beginning and that economy should be practiced. But when they reached Brussels, the home of "real lace," economy was thrown to the winds and the teachers "went the limit." And really no one, not even a man, could blame them, for the dainty laces that adorn the shop windows here are enough to attract even masculine admiration. Handkerchiefs, collars, cuffs and dress fronts are shown in such a tempting array that even the business instincts of the American school teachers went down before them.

Our carriage drives included a visit to the royal lace factory, where the slow and tedious process of making the lace was shown. Then the visitors were ushered into a beautiful room with comfortable chairs and tables and invited to inspect the finished product. This finished product was for sale, of course. The saleswomen are adepts in the art of persuasion, and it required a great effort to get the party back into the carriages again to drive to the hotel for luncheon. As a matter of fact three ladies positively declined to leave the lace factory then and returned to the hotel later by themselves.

Bachelors' Turn to Primp.

The first point of interest that we saw this morning was the great Hotel de Ville, or city hall of Brussels. This building is full of historic interest, as well as art treasures, and the teachers were enabled to refresh their memories on many points while walking through its wide halls. From there we went to the Palais de Justice, the largest building in the world, and were escorted through the court rooms by a charming French girl, who spoke excellent English. Our guide informed us that she was one of four sisters, two of whom have already married men who first met them as visitors to the Palais. There are two unmarried men in our party and they instinctively adjusted their necktie and put on a distinguished air as they entered.

From the Palais we drove past the royal palace to the lace factory, which wrought such havoc with the teachers' purses, then returned to the hotel for luncheon.

The first place visited this afternoon was the cathedral, where the teachers were fortunate enough to see King Leopold. From there we drove to the Wiertz museum to see the famous collection of paintings. These pictures are a veritable chamber of horrors, depicting the most terrible scenes that the painter's mind could conjure up. The execution is evident to the uninitiated and they are great works of art, but they are so disagreeable that one would scarcely pay a second visit to them. From here we drove along the boulevards out into the forest, through the most delightful driveways and returned to the Grand hotel early.

Within half an hour after our return a majority of the teachers were before the counters of the lace shops which line the street on which our hotel is located. It is indeed fortunate that we leave here by an early train tomorrow.

Unlike most strong medicines, it isn't a poison. It is an expeller of parasites and disease germs, and a good nourisher for muscles, nerves and brain—Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge.

BRADDOCK WILL HAVE A NEW BANK

SITE SECURED AND FINEST BUILDING IN CITY WILL BE ERECTED.

Among Those Interested in the Proposed Institution Are Many of the Prominent Citizens—Plans Will Be Pushed to Completion.

Braddock is to have another bank, and one which promises to cut considerable figure in the borough's business, judging by the personnel of the men who are back of the enterprise. The organization of the institution has been under advisement for nearly a year past and efforts have been made a number of times since to secure a suitable location for the bank building.

A deal for $70,000 worth of Braddock avenue property closed Friday, is said to be the last step necessary to complete the organization and place the promoters in a position to commence work on plans for opening the bank.

The property purchased is located at Braddock avenue and Eighth street, and is considered the most desirable business property in Braddock. According to the deed registered, it was purchased by Lewis F. Holtzman of Braddock from Dr. Sidney S. Stanl of Uniontown. The price paid was $70,000, which is considered as fair by judges of Braddock values. It was stated yesterday, however, that the property was purchased by Mr. Holtzman to be used for the site of a bank, which will be organized within a few weeks by a number of Braddock men, of whom Mr. Holtzman, Thomas Morrison, general manager of the Edgar Thomson works of the Carnegie Steel Company, and Joseph Wolf, the largest individual property holder in Braddock, are at the head. It is said that the building will cost close to $300,000 and the capitalization of the new institution will be heavy.

The report says that the present two-story brick buildings on the property will be razed, and a banking house will be erected that will be the finest building in the borough. Mr. Morrison's connection with the institution, it is thought, will bring to the bank the business of the Carnegie Steel Company, which is an important item in Braddock. The men mentioned in connection with the venture refuse to talk on the subject.

Braddock at present has four banks and a trust company, of which the Braddock National bank ranks twenty-fourth in the United States, tenth in the state of Pennsylvania and fourth in Allegheny county.

PLAYED AND SANG BEFORE SHE DRANK

Mattie McNemry Then Pledged a Toast in Carbolic Acid.

Mattie McNemry, a young woman, 24 years of age, died at the Allegheny General hospital at 8 o'clock yesterday morning after drinking two ounces of carbolic acid four hours before. Her friends and relatives cannot give any reason for the deed. She sang and played the banjo and guitar for the entertainment of her friends just previous to taking the drug and was apparently in the best of spirits. She had been sick for 13 weeks with typhoid fever until three weeks ago, and her conduct had been natural since her apparent recovery. She was not known to have any special friend with whom she might have quarreled and her home life was a happy one.

Her home was at No. 511 Coleman street, Allegheny. Her father, George McNemry, is a police officer and a few years ago was a lieutenant on the Allegheny force. Mrs. Jennie McDonald, a close friend of Miss McNemry, keeps a grocery store and boarding house at No. 620 Rebecca street. She had been without a servant for some days and Miss McNemry went there four days ago to help her about the house and store.

On Saturday night she was in the parlor with the boarders and family and sang and played for them. About 11 o'clock they had all retired to their rooms except one man, who had gone out and got a bottle of beer for himself and returned to the parlor to drink it.

Miss McNemry entered the room and displaying a small bottle said: "Here goes," and drank the contents.

She fell to the floor, and when a doctor was called, he sent her to the hospital.

Mrs. McDonald had purchased the bottle of carbolic acid a month ago to use as a disinfectant and had set it on the mantle in her room where the girl found it.

BAYNE'S OLD COMMAND.

Reunion of Company H, 136th P. V. to Be Held at Olympia Park Next Saturday.

The surviving members of Company H, One Hundred and Thirty-sixth Pennsylvania volunteers, are looking forward to a big time at the annual reunion at Olympia park, near McKeesport, next Saturday. Company H is one of the few organizations of its kind that holds annual reunions, which are generally attended by about all of the 30 survivors, whether they live far or near.

Among the prominent men who belong to the company are Crosby Gray and George W. Dilworth of Pittsburgh; John Brenneman of Burrell, Richard Gray of New Castle, Robert A. Brush of Wilmerding, W. B. Weston and William Elkin of McKeesport, L. B. Hursh of Homestead and William Decker, H. S. Oburn and Adam Fry of Irwin.

Company H was recruited about Irwin and in Pittsburgh. Sixty men joined at Irwin under S. S. Marchand, and 40 under Thomas M. Bayne at Pittsburgh. Bayne was elected captain, and later was appointed colonel of the regiment, S. S. Marchand succeeding him as captain. The company drilled at "Camp McIntyre," one mile west of Irwin, and the boys left for the front on August 10, 1862, for nine months' service. Its baptism of fire was at Fredericksburg, where 50 per cent were reported killed, wounded and missing, the death list being 33. The company was always in the battle of Chancellorsville, and when it returned home in May, 1863, only about 40 of the original 100 were left.

WANTED TO SEE "GRANDMA."

Little Bessie Murphy Ran in Front of Car.

Bessie Murphy, the 4-year-old daughter of Robert Murphy, of Shady avenue, Allegheny, who had both legs amputated at St. John's General hospital late Saturday night, will, it is thought, recover. The child's mother had stepped into a store at Kerr street and Preble avenue to make some purchases, and the child seeing her grandmother across the street, with a cry of gladness, started to run across to meet her, when a street car struck her and the front wheel passed over both the child's legs, almost severing them.

At the point where the accident occurred the avenue is very narrow and the car tracks run close to the curb. The motorman says he did not see the child until the instant the car struck her.

The child's legs were amputated below the knees.

Both the mother and grandmother of the child are prostrated over the accident and are under the care of physicians.

PRETTY FIGHTS ARE BEING MADE IN MANY STATES

Senatorial Togas Not to Be Had for Asking, but Must Be Won.

CURTIS LEADS IN KANSAS

Hopkins Combination in Illinois Giving Mason Good Run—Pritchard Has Chance in Tennessee—Too Much Timber for Missouri Guess.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
503 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 3.

One of the most interesting senatorial fights of the present campaign is to be found in "Bleeding Kansas." The state has recovered from its inoculation with populistic virus and is now reliably Republican. A few years ago it was represented in the senate by a Populist and a Democrat. Now it has a straightout Republican in Senator Burton, and on the 4th of next March Senator Harris, Democrat, will give way to a loyal Republican. But the identity of the new senator is open to question. There are three avowed candidates for the toga—Gov. Stanley, and Representatives Long and Curtis—but the other five Republican representatives are also barboring the senatorial bee, and they respond whenever they hear the term "Senator" spoken.

Representative Curtis seems to be the favorite in the race. He is serving his fifth term in the house and has made a record that cannot be attacked. As a Republican he is "all wool and a yard wide," and no member of the Kansas delegation is closer to President Roosevelt than Mr. Curtis.

If the Missouri Republicans should carry the legislature there will be an interesting contest over the senatorship. National Committeeman Kerens of St. Louis will make a hard fight for the honor, but is not regarded as being in the running, as he was knocked out at the recent Republican state convention by a faction headed by Secretary Hitchcock and Representatives Bartholdt and Joy. Ex-Representatives Warner of Kansas City, a very popular Republican and an ex-commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. of the United States, will be a formidable candidate. Representative Bartholdt of St. Louis will also be a factor in the contest and as he will have the support of the large German vote of the state, may carry off the prize. The Republicans have not elected a senator from Missouri since the seventies.

The contest over the senatorship in Illinois is fast assuming the characteristics that governed the contest of six years ago over the same prize. Then Gov. Tanner and the state administration, every member of the Republican state committee, and the Cook county machine under the lead of Representative Lorimer were allied together to control this plum. They had not agreed upon a candidate, although Gov. Tanner was an avowed aspirant, while the veteran Representative Cannon, the able Representative Hitt and the auburn haired and energetic Representative Hopkins had hopes and were working with this gigantic organization.

Opposed to this combination was William E. Mason, a former representative in congress and a popular Republican. Mr. Mason campaigned the state from the lakes to the junction of the Ohio and the Mississippi rivers and urged his candidacy. He was without a dollar in the world to be used in influencing voters, while the aggregation that opposed him could count its millions. The odds against Mr. Mason seemed unsurmountable, but his opponents were unable to unite upon a candidate when the legislature met, as Mr. Mason was too popular. The result was that Mr. Mason received the unanimous vote of the Republican caucus on the first ballot and was elected. This year Gov. Yates and the state administration, the state committee and the Cook county machine under the lead of ex-Representative Lorimer are again working together for the senatorship and have united upon Representative Hopkins of Aurora as their candidate.

Weather—Fair. Monday, August 4, 1902.

Today (we didn't count Friday and Saturday, for they were too near the end of the week) we begin putting into effect August underprices that will move something like two hundred and fifty thousand dollars' worth of Autumn goods in the next fifteen days.

Autumn goods are nothing more than hot-weather goods, for mysterious Nature has seen fit to throw some of her mellowness away into months that we used to consider months for some of her freakishness. Most of the goods that will be offered in the next fifteen days are of a character that permits them to be used into November. That is a good long spell.

We shall give you the news in pithy sections daily, and it will be worth anyone's time to become a close student of this daily news of underprices.

For Today and Tomorrow We Announce

A Sale of Odd Lots of Reed, Wicker and Rattan Furniture.

Please note carefully the difference between season prices and what we are going to charge today and tomorrow.

A chair or a sofa or table made of fibrous material does not mean that it is usable only on the porch or lawn. Many people use this class of goods in different rooms of their home throughout the year. Many prefer them to any other kind.

Of most of the pieces given here there is only one of a kind. If you cannot come in person today or tomorrow make use of the telephone. Your request will be attended to promptly.

Kornblum, the Optical Specialist, has achieved an enviable reputation both in this country and abroad. For years he has been recognized as one of the leading opticians of the United States, and his recent invention of the astigmatic devices made him a benefactor to the human race, and will cause his name to be known throughout the civilized world. He has enjoyed the distinction of adjusting glasses for a great many distinguished people, among whom have been President and Mrs. Hayes, President Garfield, President and Mrs. Harrison and President Cleveland, Secretary Cortelyou, H. C. Frick, Joseph Jefferson, Ex-Mayor Hewitt, Hon. George B. Orlady, Rev. Dr. William M. Paxon and a number of others.

Jim Dumps' good wife had oft been heard
To vow she'd have that one "last word,"
And she rejoiced to win, of course,
Until the day Jim first ate "Force!"
Now she can force no fight from him,
For "Force" has made him "Sunny Jim."
